U. S. PROBES STATE WATER CONTRACTS

(Copyright, 1939, by Boston Evening American)

In strictest secrecy, two government agents have been conducting an investigation into financial affairs connected with contracts in the water supply division of the Metropolitan District Commission, the Boston Evening American learned today.

The contracts involve more than $26,000,000, and if hints of irregularities which have reached ears of federal officials prove to be true, it is understood that federal grants for 45 per cent of this amount, or approximately $12,000,000, will be cancelled.

As contracts already have been let for the waterworks, including the Quabbin reservoir and works in northeastern Massachusetts, cancellation of the grants would mean the legislature must find $12,000,000 to cover the state's obligations to contractors.

WOULD UPSET BUDGET

Progressively, this would disrupt all Governor Saltonstall's financial plans and might prevent the legislature from proroguing until late summer or early fall.

One of the agents sent here to track down the alleged irregularities is named Bader and is from the New York office of the Department of Justice.

The other, named Watzmann, was especially assigned by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes before he relinquished control of the Public Works Administration on June 30.

These two agents have been questioning leaders and their associates in both major parties. Former Governor Charles F. Hurley was quizzed just before he sailed for Ireland with his family.

HULTMAN STIRS PROBE

It is understood the agents were ordered in here partly because of a statement made before the legislative ways and means committee more than a month ago by Eugene C. Hultman, chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission and water supply division.

This statement by Hultman, that he was requested by the then Governor Hurley to hire a certain engineer on a water project, was followed by reports that the bonding business in connection with the contracts were "more or less ordered" to certain companies by the new Republican regime.

As one of his last major acts as PWA administrator, Ickes obtained the co-operation of Frank Murphy, new attorney-general at Washington, and the Department of Justice agent was assigned to work with the Ickes investigator.

Thus far, it is known, the investigators have questioned more than 20 individuals, some of whom have signed affidavits.

Included in this group are members of the secretarial staffs of both Governor Saltonstall and former Governor Hurley.

Questioning is being conducted so

NAVY SECRETARY SWANSON, 77, DIES

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—Claude A. Swanson, 77-year-old Secretary of the Navy whose one aim was to build up a "big navy" for his country, died today.

Death came at 9:06 a. m. at his Rapidan camp in the Shenandoah National Park in Virginia. The Navy was advised it resulted from a cerebral hemorrhage yesterday.

He had been at the camp more than a month, resting and convalescing from a long illness.

C. A. Swanson

A member of the Roosevelt cabinet since 1933, Swanson followed in the navy post the same precepts which guided him as chairman of the Senate naval committee—striving always to keep the American navy up to a commanding strength in world armaments.

Illness prevented much attention to detail and he left actual direction of the Navy Department largely to Assistant Secretary Charles Edison, and to Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of operations.

Edison himself was ill for several months this spring, but returned to his duties at the Navy Department on June 1. Edison, by Swanson's death, autimatically becomes acting secretary.

Swanson had spent most of the last several summers at the Rapidan camp, which is maintained by the Marine Corps. It was a favorite summer spot also for President Hoover when he was in the White House.

SENATOR 23 YEARS

Behind Swanson's service in the Cabinet lay a long record of other work, as a senator for 23 years and Governor of Virginia for four.

President Roosevelt, the first to announce the death to the nation, spoke of Swanson as "an inspiration for all public servants" and Senator Carter Glass, his long-time colleague, said he was "dreadfully distressed" at the news.

Swanson was born at Swansonville, Va., March 31, 1862, the son of a tobacco planter. He is survived by his widow and a stepson.

Auto Strike Spreads To Four More Plants

DETROIT, July 7 (AP) — CIO union tool and die workers spread their strike against General Motors Corporation to four additional plants today, bringing the number of idle employes to nearly 6000.

Walkouts occurred in Plant 37 and the Fleetwood unit of the Fisher body division and in two units of the Ternstedt division, all in Detroit.

Horses Stage Duel

Battle Ends in Death of One

WEST WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 7 (AP)—A furious battle at midnight between two horses in Mount Calvary Cemetery ended early today in the death of one.

The mad pawings and snorts of the enraged animals attracted attendants, who saw the beasts rear and strike at each other with their iron-clad hooves until the elder of the two, a 12-year-old, was forced over an embankment into a brook.

Attendants found the animal floundering helplessly in the water, its leg broken. A policeman was summoned to destroy it.

34 Senators Band For Filibuster on Neutrality Changes

WASHINGTON, July 7 (INS)—Thirty-four members of the Senate served notice on President Roosevelt today that they would fight—"by every honorable and legitimate means at our command"—any effort to modify the present neutrality law with its drastic ban on shipment of arms to warring nations.

The formidable group issued a statement opposing the administration's foreign policy proposals after an hour-and-a-half meeting in the office of Senator Hiram Johnson (R.) of California, one of the Senate's staunchest isolationists.

The statement made it plain that the 34 senators were ready to filibuster, if necessary, to block the President's fight for lifting of the arms embargo to permit this country to throw its economic power behind Europe's democracies.

"REAL NEUTRALITY"

The statement follows:

"We are unalterably opposed to the repeal or modification of the present neutrality law prohibiting the sale or exportation of arms, munitions or implements of war to nations engaged in war.

"We are against any discretion being lodged in the hands of any chief executive to determine an aggressor or aggressors during any war abroad.

"We believe in the real neutrality of our nation in case of any armed conflict.

"We are determined to maintain our position by every honorable and legitimate means at our command."

Probe Malden Bribe Charge

The Middlesex County District Attorney's office today began a probe of Malden politics, following complaint by a Malden city councilor that an attempt had been made to buy his vote for a candidate for city assessor.

Complaining councilor was Anthony Rea, who was closeted with Assistant District Attorney Albert Wunderley for several hours during the day. Rea was accompanied by his brother, Leonard.

Following the conference, Wunderley declined to make any statement until he has reported to District Attorney Robert F. Bradford.

He expects to make his report early next week, he said.

800 HERE DEFY WPA JOB ORDER

In spite of stern warning to stick to their jobs or be fired, more than 800 New England WPA employes, including an estimated 200 in Massachusetts, remained on strike today in protest against longer working hours without corresponding pay increase.

They joined a nation-wide WPA walkout, backed in many states by leaders of organized labor.

Three high-ranking American Federation of Labor officials met today with WPA Commissioner Harrington at Washington, seeking quick settlement of the threatened deadlock.

They claimed 100,000 WPA workers were idle throughout the nation.

The general WPA strike was called in opposition to provisions of the new national work-relief law recently enacted by Congress. The law requires a WPA work schedule of at least 130 hours a month per employe, thus definitely eliminating the "prevailing wage scale" rule hitherto in effect.

Colonel John J. McDonough, WPA head here, said today he believed the "great majority" of workers in this state would continue to report for duty as usual.

LAWRENCE HARD HIT

According to Colonel McDonough's survey of Massachusetts projects today, 100 WPA workers were on strike in Lawrence, 40 in Lowell, 18 in Springfield and two in Haverhill.

The only city really hard hit, McDonough said, was Lawrence, where a school repair job was at a standstill on account of the walkout.

The order from WPA headquarters in Washington, directing firing of employes absent from their jobs five working days in succession, will be strictly enforced here, McDonough warned.

Lothario Cops Get Jail Terms; Appeal

Accused of playing gay Lothario roles, two married Hyde Park police officers were sentenced to jail today on morals charges in West Roxbury court.

A young married woman, allegedly trapped in her bedroom Fourth of July morning with one of the policemen, was also given a jail sentence.

All three of the defendants appealed and were held for trial in superior court.

Bail of $400 each was furnished by Patrolman William R. Winter of Johnson street, West Roxbury, and by Mrs. Katherine M. Gaffey of Weld street, West Roxbury.

PAIR GET JAIL TERMS

They had been arrested on complaint of Mrs. Gaffey's husband, John, a Boston salesman.

According to his story to police, Gaffey came home early in the morning, July 4, entered his home through a cellar window and found his wife and Patrolman Winters together in an upstairs sleeping chamber.

Gaffey said he snatched some of the officer's clothing from a chair, then ran to a neighbor's house and telephoned to the West Roxbury police station.

Goth Winters and Mrs. Gaffey were allegedly scantily clad when they were taken in custody.

After a private hearing today, Judge Daniel W. Casey sentenced each of them to six months in jail.

APPEALS SENTENCE

Also found guilty and sentenced after a private hearing was Patrolman Bruce P. Louden of Huntington avenue, Roxbury, also attached to the Hyde Park police station.

Louden was charged with misconduct with young and pretty Miss Lydia Rieger of River street, Hyde Park. He was also charged with being the father of her child.

On the first count he was sentenced to two months in the House of Correction.

He appealed both findings and furnished bail of $1500 on he former, $500 on the latter.

No charge was brought against Miss Rieger.

TELLS OF NAZI TRIANGLE—Gitta Alpar, non-Aryan film star, arrives in New York with daughter, Julika, 5, and a story of how her ex-mate, Gustav Froelich, socked Nazi Joseph Goebbels

GOEBBELS SOCKED AND HOW, AND WHY

NEW YORK, July 7—Gustav Froelich, idol of millions of German film fans, did sock Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda in the Hitler cabinet, when he caught him making love to Lida Baarova, and probably paid for the blow with his liberty, possibly his life.

And because he was deprived of either liberty, or life, his friends did invade Doctor Goebbels' Berlin apartment last December, and did horsewhip him.

What's more, Mme. Goebbels sought to divorce her club-footed husband, but was prevented by Herr Adolf, himself, who put a quick hush on the whole affair.

Gitta Alpar, once the queen of light opera in Germany, and Froelich's former wife, here on her way to Hollywood, today told the whole amazing story of amorous intrigue, which, for a time, promised grave embarrassments to the Hitler regime.

Miss Alpar, who has with her Julika, Froelich's 5-year-old daughter, said that her own marriage was wrecked by Goebbels because she is an Hungarian Jewess, the daughter of a cantor.

"My husband telephoned to me one day. He was excited," she

Purvis to Publish Daily Newspaper

FLORENCE, S. C., July 7 (INS)—Melvin Purvis, former ace G-man who tracked down the late John Dillinger and other outlaws who ranked high on the F. B. I.'s "public enemy" list, is planning to enter the newspaper business as a publisher, it was learned today.

Within the near future, Purvis plans to establish an afternoon daily paper in this city.

RESCUED WOMAN HIDES IDENTITY

Dark-eyed, smiling enigma, a 28-year-old mystery woman who yesterday was saved from drowning in the Charles river by two telephone linemen, today defied efforts of police, clergyman and City Hospital doctors to learn her identity.

She would not give the slightest clue as to who she is, nor reveal why she plunged from the railing of Harvard bridge.

Her rescue, the second of its kind in two days, was executed by expert "roping" of Edmund D. Leonard of Medford and Otto J. Wilhelm of Dorchester, New England Telephone Company "trouble shooters" who saw her leap.

They also saw a young man who seemed to be walking with the woman, break and disappear.

Hurrying to their truck, the two men got a rope and Leonard was let down to the water by Wilhelm.

Leonard said the woman was "treading" water to keep afloat. Slipping another rope around her Leonard climbed his rope to the bridge.

WHO IS SHE?

Unable to lift her back to the bridge, the two men held the rope to keep her from sinking.

A launch manned by four men, Richard O'Toole of Massachusetts avenue, Back Bay; Thomas Gonzole of Dale street, Roxbury; Charles McGuinness and John Deltufo, both of Dudley street, Roxbury, picked them up.

Recovering at the hospital, the woman said:

"I always heard drowning was an easy way to die. But when I kept going down and down and down I thought I would never come up. I am not so sure now."

Secrecy to Veil Long Execution

LACONIA, N. H., July 7 (AP)—The man who springs the trap next Friday night to send Howard Long to his death for the sex slaying of 10-year-old Neville Jensen will never be sure he did it.

Sheriff Frederick Elliott, who will have charge of the hanging, announced today three levers would be installed in state prison at Concord for the execution of the 41-year-old gasoline station attendant.

Only one lever will be connected with the spring trap and even the sheriff will not know which lever it is.

Preparations for the execution—the first in New Hampshire since 1918—will go under way early next week. Only a small group will be permitted to witness the hanging.

TUCKY ASTOR AWAITS STORK

NEWPORT, R. I., July 7—John Jacob Astor, III, and his wife, the former Ellen ("Tucky") French of Dedham, are expecting another visit from the stork in the early winter, it was reported here today as they settled down for the summer.

They arrived a few days ago from Rhinebeck-on-the-Hudson, and expect to remain here for the rest of the summer.

They already have a son and heir in the person of William Astor, a sturdy youth of three bright summers, and are said to long for a girl baby to round out their little family.

It is likely that Doctors' Hospital, New York, will be the place, as that is where William was born.

The Astors are among the most popular of the younger set here, being wholly unaffected with that "side" which surrounds parts of Newport with frosty reserve.

BORAH SOUNDS U. S. NEUTRALITY WARNING

Anti-F.D.R. Forces Launch New Drive

WASHINGTON, July 7—Rallied by warnings from William Borah, "grand old man of the Senate," anti-Roosevelt forces combined today in a drive to thwart administration moves for a neutrality law lifting the ban on arms shipments to warring nations.

Crux of the opposition rested in a small bi-partisan coalition in the Senate, invited to attend a caucus in the office of Senator Johnson (R.) of California.

Four senators—Johnson, Nye (R.), North Dakota, LaFollette (P.), Wisconsin and Clarke (R.), Missouri—signed the invitation to the caucus that was sent to more than a score of others believed amenable to such a plan.

Opening shot in the drive was fired by Senator Borah in a bluntly worded warning that Congress should disregard the reactions of the "democracies" and "dictatorships" of Europe in considering revision of the law.

Asserting that there was little to choose between the foreign policies of the totalitarian and democratic nations, Borah urged that the traditional American policy of neutrality be maintained. He has opposed Administration efforts to repeal the arms embargo of the present neutrality law.

CITES MUNICH

"Our policy is an American policy," Borah said, reading from a prepared statement to a hushed Senate. "It should be maintained for the interests of no foreign nation, for or in favor of no foreign government, but for the best interests of the American people and against all of the isms and schemes which would seek to destroy it."

Borah cited statements in the French press complaining that the action of the House last Saturday in amending the administration neutrality bill to retain an embargo on arms and ammunition might encourage aggression by the totalitarian states.

"What is the difference between the dictators and the democracies of Europe in questions touching international affairs?" he demanded. "For illustration what was the difference in policy between the dictators and the democracies at Munich?

"When the hour came for the dictators and the democracies to join in an international movement of stupendous moment, that is, to destroy, to literally murder the one real democracy (Czechoslovakia) in Europe, what was the distinction in the principles applied by the dictators and the democracies?

REJECT REFERENDUM

"When it appeared to be in the interests of the dictators and the democracies to break treaties, to disregard all law, legal, moral or divine, all principles opposed to obtain among honorable and decent communities, what was the distinction?"

Meanwhile the senate judiciary committee stepped heavily upon the idea of submitting the question of a declaration of war to a popular referendum.

First it rejected, 8 to 5, a constitutional amendment under which the people, in a referendum, would decide whether or not to declare war. It then defeated, 9 to 6, another proposal by Senator Wiley, (R.), of Wisconsin, which called for a referendum but would leave final action on a war declaration to Congress.

The proposed amendments had the common feature of permitting the government to take the necessary steps, without consulting the electorate, in the event of an actual or threatened attack upon the United States, or its possessions, or an attack by a non-American power upon any nation of the western hemisphere.

SUES HER FATHER-IN-LAW

NAZIS PUSH PLAN FOR JEW OUSTER

BERLIN, July 7 (AP)—The Nazis set up today a new organization, "The Reich's Union of Jews in Germany," to hasten their program of ridding Germany of "every single Jew" and to restrain those still here from contact with German citizens.

All Jews except foreigners must belong to the organization, the main task of which is to speed the emigration of Jews. It has been estimated that 400,000 Jews—of whom 200,000 are considered too old to emigrate—still live in Germany.

The new law empowers Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick to dissolve any Jewish organization or society or to order its incorporation in the new union. The property of the dissolved organizations falls to the state. Jews may attend only those schools which are under the control of the union.

Adolf Hitler's Voelkischer Beobacher said:

"It is in accord again with German generosity that existing public and private schools and educational arrangements of Jews can be taken over by the Reich's union."

The newspaper pointed out that the union must establish a fund to care for Jewish welfare needs and help needy Jews to emigrate, and added:

"National Socialist Germany does everything and still more to make it as pleasant as possible for the democracies to take in their special darlings."

French Join World Propaganda War

PARIS, July 7 (AP)—France has entered a world propaganda "war" by sending out daily broadcasts in six languages from 17 stations.

Broadcasts in German, Italian, Spanish, English, Arabic and Serb-Croat tongues present the viewpoint that France "is against war and desires a true peace."

The addition of the Serb-Croat broadcasts was seen as an effort to put across the French version of world events to Yugoslavia.

Poland Gets 200,000 Feet of U. S. Helium

AMARILLO, Texas, July 7 (AP)—The United States helium plant here has shipped 200,000 cubic feet of the non-inflammable gas to Poland for a stratosphere flight.

Dr. C. W. Seibel, in charge of the plant, said the purchase was arranged in Washington by the Polish consulate at New York.

Believe Nazis Plan For Coup in Balkans

LONDON, July 7 (AP)—The belief was expressed in some unofficial political quarters today that the Nazis might shift their immediate attention from Danzig to southeast Europe during an apparent lull in tension between Germany and Poland.

Several observers thought Great Britain's declarations of support for Poland appeared to have averted a conflict over Danzig—at any rate for the time being—but might have brought the Balkan situation to the fore.

"Watch the Balkans," the Daily Mail warned, and demanded a "plain statement" of British policy in the event of Hungarian or Bulgarian aggression, backed in Germany, against Rumania.

Noting the visits in Berlin of Premier George Kiosseivanoff of Bulgaria and General Henry Werth, chief of the Hungarian general staff, the newspaper asked "where would Britain stand" if Germany supported Hungarian claims to Transylvania or Bulgarian agitation for Dobrudja—both Rumania territory.

"We are pledged to assist Rumania if her independence were threatened. Would it (the pledge) operate if Hungary or Bulgaria were the aggressors?" the Daily Mail asked.

Usually well informed sources said there was a possibility that the participation of 52 Royal Air Force planes in Bastile Day exercises in Paris July 14 would be followed by R. A. F. visits to other countries to which Britain has given guarantees of help if attacked.

Jap Bombs Mar British Gunboat

CHUNGKING, China, July 7 (AP)—Doors of the 400-ton British gunboat Falcon were blown in and the craft's lower decks were washed with water when four bombs from Japanese warplanes exploded near her Yangtze river anchorage early today.

The second anniversary of the Chinese-Japanese war was ushered in, in the Chinese capital, with bombs from five successive flights of Japanese warplanes which caused about 50 casualties.

Some bombs narrowly missed the residence of the counselor of the United States embassy, Willys R. Peck, and the Canadian Mission hostel, where more than a score of foreigners live.

BRITAIN TO ASSURE POLES AID

LONDON, July 7 (AP)—Parliamentary circles believed today Prime Minister Chamberlain on Monday would declare that any German-supported change in the status of Danzig, except by a Polish-backed agreement, would be considered an "act of aggression" by Germany.

The prime minister had been expected to make a statement in the House of Commons today but postponed it because of technicalities in parliamentary procedure.

Some indication of the nature of the proposed declaration was seen in a question filed in the House of Commons by Harold MacMillan, a member of the Conservative party, to be answered Monday.

The question, which informed sources said was framed at Chamberlain's request, asks whether "the government will issue a declaration that any change in the present status of Danzig, other than by agreement to which the Polish government is a party, will be regarded as an act of aggression on the part of Germany and therefore covered by the terms of our pledge to Poland."

It was understood the Prime Minister would give an affirmative reply.

3 Nazi Theological Schools Must Close

BERLIN, July 7 (AP)—The minister of education, in a new anti-church move, has notified three Protestant theological schools they must close their doors by October 1.

The schools are connected with the Universities of Leipzig, Heidelberg and Rostock. Heidelberg's is the oldest in Germany. This will leave 13 theological schools in the Reich.

Hub Swelters 4th Day As Death Toll Increases

An unidentified man died from the heat in Roxbury today as the city sweltered, with little prospect of relief from showers before Sunday afternoon.

As the mercury soared well over yesterday's marks, the body of a man about 40 years old, with his shoes and hat beside him, was found in a vacant lot off Southampton street.

Police said the man had probably slept in the field seeking relief from the heat.

HUMIDITY HIGHER

So blistering was the heat, with midmorning temperatures running three degrees higher than yesterday, Postmaster Peter F. Tague cancelled the midday mail delivery in the general post office section for fear of heat prostrations among mail carriers.

A nine-point increase in the humidity also added to the city's discomfort. With the breeze still blowing from the southwest, the weather bureau predicted little likelihood of any marked temperature change over the week-end.

Before midday the thermometer reached 87, and was still climbing.

Betrayed twice in shower predictions, the weatherman abandoned them, declaring it will be "partly cloudy" tomorrow and Sunday with a possibility of local thunder showers Sunday afternoon.

"Probably continued somewhat oppressively warm," the official prediction said.

With a fair and hot week-end in the offing for the whole of New England, thousands planned to seek refuge at shore and woods resorts.

FARMERS NEED RAIN

Farmers joined in the public clamor for tempering showers.

The heat wave is blamed on a blanket of tropical air, moving right from the bad lands of Texas. Much of the nation is held in the same torrid grip with Kansas City and its 102 degrees the hot spot in the country.

Meanwhile, the drowning toll increased by four.

He had been in a CCC camp at North Stratford, N. H., with James Campbell, 21, also of South Quincy. The latter fatally ruptured himself while doing "stunts" at the camp, and King had been saddened by his death.

Girl's Slaying Tale Fake

NEW YORK, July 7—New York police are just a bunch of "doubting-meanies" to pretty Katherine Thistle, 15-year-old Portland, Me., high school girl, who waited impatiently today for a Portland policewoman to take her home.

The little runaway had woven a most fantastic tale of robbery and even murder—with herself in a heroine role—only to have those skeptical detectives spoil all her fun.

Katherine, who has run away from home six times in the past year according to Portland police, said she left home July 3 and was picked up by two young men 20 miles outside Portland. Another girl joined the party in Massachusetts.

She said that the men held up a gasoline station near New Haven, Conn., and then quarrelled over the $100 loot. One of the youths shot and killed the other, she said. With the body of the dead boy in the car, they proceeded into New York state before the murderer stopped and buried his companion.

Once in New York the murderer and two girls separated. Katherine was found at Coney Island.

"Meanie" cops checked on the girl's gang thriller with New Haven police and learned it just wasn't so. They thought Katherine had better go home and be a good girl.

12 ESCAPE BLAZE IN SOUTH BOSTON

Twelve persons in three South Boston families fled to the street when fire swept the top floor of a three story dwelling in Gates street today.

Patients at nearby Carney Hospital were aroused by the sounds of fire apparatus and firemen battling the flames.

John J. O'Donnell, whose family of six occupied the top floor of the burning building, rushed through a flaming kitchen to arouse others in his family and his neighbors downstairs. He rang in the alarm from a box at Gates and Telegraph streets.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael L. Mulkern and family were driven from their first floor apartment and Mary L. Doyle was forced from her suite on the second floor by heavy smoke and water.

Officials said careless smoking caused the fire. Damage was estimated at $1800.

Mary Brian Too Busy for Romance

GLOUCESTER, July 7—Reported engaged to most of the leading men of Hollywood at one time or another, Mary Brian is still single, and as she reads the grounds in her teacup there's no bridegroom on the immediate horizon.

She's on here to act with Orson Welles' Mercury Theater players at the Bass Rock summer theater.

Laughing over perennial reports of romance, she says she has plenty of dates in the movie capital, but the men are all just good friends.

"Skipping about the country as I do is not conducive to serious romance . . . a girl can't really work at it."

But if the right heart interest did come along, Mary admits she'd probably be the last person in the world to let her friends (or reporters) in on the secret.

LIKES NORTH SHORE

The lovely Texas girl, who broke into movie stardom at 18 in "Peter Pan" and was one of the few stars to survive the transition from silent films to talkies, thinks the North Shore is "marvelous."

Asked her opinion of the chances of society girls who are flocking to summer stock theaters in increasing numbers in quest of dreamed-of stage careers, Mary declared some of them display real talent.

"I feel funny. I've been stung by a bee. You know, I'm allergic to bee stings."

He collapsed and died in 20 minutes.

BOUND FOR BOURNE

A two weeks' training tour for 585 officers and men of the First Corps Cadets, 211th Coast Artillery, starts tomorrow at Bourne. They are to be transported to the training field in 65 army trucks.

Ban Retirement Contributions

Court officers of Middlesex County, who have been contributing 5 per cent of their salaries since January 1, 1938, to a county retirement fund, need no longer contribute, the Supreme Court ruled today.

The court ruled the officers come under provisions of a 1912 statute which provides pensions of one-half their annual salary when the court officer has served 20 years and becomes incapacitated.

The fund, to which they have been contributing against their will, was established by a 1937 statute.

This case came before the court on a petition by Court Officers Gustavus E. Litchfield of Waltham, Charles E. Robinson of Concord, William M. Emerson of Watertown, Samuel Miller of Malden, Frederick F. Clauss and Clarence McElroy, both of Cambridge, and George H. Stevens of Dracut.

Doctor Dies of Equine Sleeping Sickness

KANSAS CITY, July 7 (AP)—Dr. Charles Salsbery, 67, died today of equine encephalitis, a sleeping sickness limited chiefly to horses, for which he was seeking a cure.

A serum developed by his associates in an effort to save his life gave him temporary relief yesterday, but he suffered a relapse in the night.

Actress Divorces Wrigley Executive

CHICAGO, July 7 (INS)—Mrs. A. G. Cox Atwater, Chicago matron, became Dorothy Lee, actress, today.

Charging cruelty, the former screen actress won an uncontested divorce from Atwater, a Wrigley Chewing Gum Company executive, whom she married three years ago. She also won permission to resume her maiden name, Dorothy Lee.

ATTACK BY SUITOR MAY BLIND GIRL

BROCKTON, July 7—Beaten by an impetuous suitor, who struck her repeatedly when she resisted his advances, Miss Lillian Schrang, 23-year-old waitress, was threatened with blindness today but named her assailant to police.

"He asked me to go out with him again and again," she moaned at Brockton Hospital. "I refused, but he was persistent.

"Last night I finally consented —and look what happened!"

The girl, who at first said she was set upon by a stranger, who leaped upon her as she passed the doorway of a Belmont street garage, promised police she would help them prosecute her assailant in the event he is caught. Detectives were assigned to bring in the man for questioning.

Her assailant struck her repeatedly in the face in an attempt to silence her screams as he dragged her to the rear of the garage.

Police said Miss Schrang battled the man furiously, biting him twice in the right arm and arousing the neighborhood by her cries for help.

During the struggle the man gouged the girl's eyes with his thumbs and broke her glasses. Her face was badly cut and bruised as well.

Three police cruisers were rushed to the scene, but the girl's assailant escaped when he saw them approach. Hysterically weeping and near collapse, Miss Schrang was taken to Brockton Hospital for treatment.

She received a scratched eyeball and a torn nerve in the corner of the right eye which may cause partial blindness, police said.

TODAY-HOUSEHOLD FINANCE OPENS NEW BOSTON OFFICE

New branch office at 80 Boylston St. makes cash loans of $20 to $300 to employed men and women

Read how you can borrow $100 without co-makers or endorsers if you can repay $9.75 a month for 12 months—Prompt service

HOUSEHOLD Finance has already helped thousands of Bostonians solve their emergency money problems. The number of our customers has steadily grown as one man has told another about us and the service we render. In order to render prompt service to even more borrowers we are now opening a third office in downtown Boston.

This new office is located in Suite 501 Little Building, 80 Boylston Street, corner Tremont Street. Here we will welcome the phone call or visit of any employed man or woman who needs a cash loan.

You will find the Household Finance plan offers a simple, convenient way to get a cash loan. You borrow without co-makers or endorsers. You repay in 2 to 20 convenient monthly installments as you choose. The sooner you repay your loan, the less it costs.

Suppose you need $100 and can conveniently repay $9.75 a month. Twelve installments of this amount will repay your loan in full, including charges. Or twenty monthly payments of $6.41 each will also repay a $100 loan. These payments include Household's charge for the use of the money. Household's charges are substantially below the maximum authorized by the Massachusetts small loan law.

All you do to borrow at Household

To get a Household Finance loan of $20 to $300 you merely tell us about your needs. No credit inquiries are made of friends or relatives. You don't have to ask anyone to sign the loan papers with you (married couples sign together). You get your loan on your own signature—promptly and simply. Usually the money is ready for you the day after you apply.

Choose your own monthly payments

Find the amount of cash you need in the first column of the loan table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment which you wish to make. See how you can make very small payments if you prefer. Or you can pay larger installments and pay up sooner. Note how little your loan costs if you repay in a short time. A loan of $100 repaid in four monthly installments costs only $6.32. And to get your Household Finance loan you need no endorsers. You are spared the embarrassment of asking others to guarantee payment of your loan.

You are urged, in your own interest, to learn all about the Household Finance loan plan. Study the table. Note the convenience of Household's payment schedules. Then phone or visit us for further information without obligation.

FIREBUG QUIZ IN WOBURN

What police believe may have been a case of arson today caused a serious blaze in a three-family house on Conn street, Woburn, endangering the lives of three families, inlcidung six small children.

After fire inspectors and Lieutenant Daniel Murphy of the fire marshal's office reported finding charred excelsior and evidence of gasoline where the flames broke out, police held a Woburn man for questioning.

The blaze started under the back porch of the house while the families were in bed. Aroused by smoke, Mrs. Norma Keith woke up her two children, Donald, five, and Vernon, three, and then gave the alarm to the other families.

Cut off from the rear by the blaze, all escaped down the front stairs as fire engines clattered to the scene.

Led to safety by Mrs. Keith were Mr. and Mrs. John Burke and their children, Irene, eight; Beverly, two, and four-months-old Nellie, who was carried out in her mother's arms.

Also driven to the street by the blaze was Mrs. Mary Davis, with her three-year-old daughter, Peggy.

Heiress Gets $2000 to Aid Love in Cottage

NEW YORK, July 7 (AP)—Andrea Luckenbach Dobbs, who left a Long Island estate with 20 servants for love in a $55-a-month cottage, had an extra $2000 today to make the cottage more livable.

A. L. Dobbs

The 19-year-old heiress to a shipping fortune said in a court petition that her young husband, Billy Dobbs, earned just enough as a commission salesman to pay living expenses, but that she needed a maid, an automobile and some additional clothes.

"Mrs. Dobbs has been accustomed to a very high state of living," said the petition.

"She has always had expensive clothes, a horse, maids and other luxuries, and has been accustomed to traveling and entertaining extensively."

The extra allowance was granted from trust funds. Her father, Edgar Luckenbach, cut off her allowance when she married Dobbs.

Don't Be Fooled! Female Canaries Can Sing, But—

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 7 (AP) — Female canaries have been made to sing by injection of male hormones, the Rutgers University Bureau of Biological Research announced today.

Effects of the injections, however, don't last long enough to make it feasible to keep female canaries as pets, said Dr. Samuel L. Leonard, who conducted the experiments.

"I hope that unscrupulous dealers will not be pawning off injected females as singing males on unsuspecting purchasers as a result of this experience," he said.

"We merely have established the fact that singing is a secondary characteristic with male canaries."

SUITOR KILLS KIN OF GIRL

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., July 7 (AP)—A plot worthy of a dramatic farce, but which resulted tragically, was vividly described at an inquest into the death of Harold Tetlow, 17, of Hartford, one of the principals in a fantastic scheme designed to show that a New York youth was not serious in his protestation of love for Tetlow's 15-year-old sister.

Coroner Morris H. Wrubel found that Tetlow, son of a Y. M. C. A. physical director, was killed in a fist fight with Robert Thomas, 21, of New York city. The coroner exonerated Thomas of criminal responsibility, finding that he fought against his wishes and in self-defense.

Piecing together the stories of six witnesses, Coroner Wrubel said Tetlow and a group of friends worked out a plan to show that Thomas was not serious in his "declaration that he loved" Tetlow's sister, who was not otherwise identified in the finding.

"The procedure to be followed in accordance with this plan," the coroner reported, "was to have one of the young ladies of the group give the said Thomas a chance to make love to her. When the opportunity presented itself, the said Thomas proceeded to do just that, whereupon the young lady in question slapped his face

MRS. FRANK C. HENDERSON
Now She Takes Shroud on Travels

Best Dressed Woman Has Shroud in Hospital

NEW YORK, July 7—Mrs. Frank C. Henderson, society dowager and often referred to as one of the best dressed women in the world, carries a shroud with her wherever she goes on her frequent trips to the far places of the world, it was revealed here today with news that at the moment she is confined by a minor ailment to Lenox Hill Hospital.

Mrs. Henderson, whose Park avenue apartment is one of the most luxurious, is a famed traveler, spending most of her time abroad, and has established an enviable record for visiting out-of-the-way ports of call in her journeyings. The shroud, tailored by one of the most famous of French couturieres, is always packed and carried along.

The dowager's present indisposition is said to involve a minor deficiency of the blood, which is expected to respond readily to treatment.

MAY LIFT SQUALUS NEW WAY

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 7 (AP)—Officers in charge of salvaging the sunken submarine Squalus, temporary tomb of 26 men, said today the mishap which delayed lifting the stricken craft might necessitate a change of method.

That, they explained, would mean drawing all three of the chains necessary to attach five pontoons to the flooded after-section beneath the stern at the same time, instead of separately.

Fouled lines forced the salvage workers to raise two pontoons already sent down. Wire ropes became entangled between a massive chain sling and the hull of the Squalus.

In any event, the officer said, the mishap would delay by two or three days the raising of the sub, which went down in 40 fathoms 15 miles off Portsmouth on May 23.

Divers again were active preparing lines and gear for attaching the five pontoons to the after-section, and, providing weather continues favorable, officers said, that task would be resumed tomorrow.

Long Starts Cleanup Of Huey's Empire

BATON ROUGE, La., July 7 (AP)—Spurred by disclosure of startling financial improprieties at Louisiana State University, Governor Earl K. Long today pressed a cleanup campaign within the political organization set up by his brother, the late "Kingfish" Huey P. Long.

Meanwhile, Dr. James Monroe Smith, whose financial difficulties precipitated the state's greatest turmoil of a generation, remained comfortably in jail here on a charge he embezzled $100,000 from the university he had headed nine years.

Governor Long, stepping directly into the stormy capital scene for the first time since taking office 12 days ago, abolished the state publicity bureau established a year ago by his predecessor, Richard W. Leche, and ordered a stop to the "bad practice" of certain Louisiana officials selling materials to the state through companies they organized.

He refused to reveal the officials' name, but said they had brought pressure to bear on private citizens and business establishments to patronize their firms, and added he hadn't inquired into the possibility they might have been violating the law.

"My main object is to stop the business," Long declared. "I'm only responsible for what goes on under my own administration."

Former LSU Official Held in WPA Probe

NEW ORLEANS, July 7 (AP)—George Caldwell, former construction superintendent at Louisiana State University, was arrested today on a federal warrant charging him with diversion of WPA material and labor to the use of private individuals.

Caldwell, whose resignation was asked and accepted earlier this week, was taken into custody as he left the federal grand jury room here after appearing in response to a summons.

Specifically Caldwell was charged with "knowingly and wilfully diverting for the benefit of persons not entitled thereto services of certain Works Progress workers and personal property."

BAILED OUT—Charged with aiding the flight of her husband, Mrs. James M. Smith, wife of the former president of Louisiana State University, leaves Baton Rouge, La., jail with her son after being bailed out by college professors. Smith is accused of embezzling $100,000.

TAX CASES DELAYED

Presentation of evidence to the Federal grand jury in the government's case against two prominent Boston attorneys for income tax evasion was halted by U. S. Atty. Edmound J. Brandon, to study several law questions.

Kentucky Flood Toll Reported Over 155

MOREHEAD, Ky., July 7 (INS)—The toll in lives and property taken by Tuesday's "flash floods" in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky passed all previous estimates today when a checkup by authorities revealed that between 155 and 165 persons were dead or missing, 2500 were homeless and damage totaled about $5,000,000.

Seventy-five bodies had been recovered throughout the flood area, with the greatest loss of life counted in Morehead, Rowan county seat, and near Jackson in Breathitt county.

Morehead rescue workers said 38 bodies had been recovered, with "a dozen or more" still missing.

In Breathitt county Mayor William H. Bailey of Jackson stated 25 bodies had been found, but that 65 persons were missing and "probably dead." Most of the missing were in Keck and Vancleve areas, the mayor said.

The mayor revealed also that 14 girl students were swept away by the flood waters as they slept in the Bible division of the Mount Carmel school on Vance Creek in Breathitt. The girls have not been found, the mayor said, and they were believed dead.

Twelve bodies from the Jackson region were found miles away at Beattyville on the Kentucky river.

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—Eamon De Valera, Premier of Ireland, will be sail for the United States, September 21. This was announced today by John Cudahy, American minister to Ireland.

34 SENATORS PLEDGE NEUTRALITY BATTLE

senators met in Senator Johnson's office and the support of the 14 others was obtained during the session.

LODGE AT MEETING

The concerted action today and the denunciation of France and England on the flor of the Senate yesterday by Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho, another of the "great isolationists," brought the entire administration neutrality program into delicate balance.

With a solid opposition of 34, the Senate leaders of the administration would be powerless to stop a filibuster. In the face of this, President Roosevelt may be forced to abandon his program or face a session which would last until January 2. Congress would then reconvene in its next regular session on JaJnuary 3.

Senators Johnson, Nye (R.) of North Dakota, LaFollette (P.) of Wisconsin and Clark (D.) of Missouri, signed the invitation which brought about today's meeting.

Among other Senators attending were Borah, Reed (R.) of Kansas, Capper (R.) of Kansas, Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan, Danaher (R.) of Connecticut, Lodge (R.) of Massachusetts, White (R.) of Maine, Bone (D.) of Washington, Clark D.) of Idaho, and Shipstead (Federated Labor) of Minnesota.

EVERYBODY HAD A HAND

Lodge, one of the first to leave the session, said the statement had been framed by no single author.

"Nearly everybody had a hand in it," he said. "We are determined to keep this country out of war by remaining neutral."

The 34 senators signing the statement—a virtual ultimatum to the President to withdraw in its fight to lift the arms embargo—represented all political complexions of the Senate and some of the most powerful leaders on Capitol Hill.

Simultaneous with the opposition meetin, Chairman Pittman (D) of Nevada, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee postponed until next Tuesday a meeting of the committee scheduled for tomorrow to consider neutrality legislation.

Pittman explained that "so many senators will be out of town over the week-end that we decided to postpone the meeting." His action drew from Senator Clark (D.) of Missouri the observation:

"They haven't got sufficient votes in the committee to carry a vote to hold the committee here and coninue at work until a bill is agreed upon."

Jailed in Theft Of Girl's Watch

Accused by pretty 27-year-old Evelyn C. MacBride of Gordon street, Allston, of stealing her $175 wrist watch, Clifford Powers, 35, also of Gordon street, was sentenced today to three months in the House of Correction.

Powers, father of two children, appealed, and was held in $500 bail by Judge Thomas H. Connelly. Miss MacBridge told the judge she left her watch at Powers' watch repair shop to be fixed, and that Powers had pawned it Powers contended he had misla.d the watch.

Military Funeral Planned For Gen. Logan on Monday

Lieutenant-General Edward L. Logan, one of Boston's outstanding citizens, lawyer, soldier and jurist, will be accorded full military honors at a solemn high mass of requiem at the Gate of Heaven Church in South Boston Monday morning.

General Logan, former colonel of the old "Fighting Ninth," later the 101st Infantry, and the regiment's wartime commander, died at the Phillips House of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

He was a victim of a heart attack, and had been under treatment for several weeks. The distinguished military and civic leader was 64 years old.

The Rev. Leo J. Logan of the Sea of the Sea Church in Marblehead will sang the funeral mass. He is the brother of the late soldier and jurist.

SANK RAPIDLY

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Cecilia Mullen Logan; a son, Edward, Jr., 13; two daughters, Elizabeth, and Catherine, seven, four brothers, Francis V., Theodore M., Malcolm and the Rev. Leo J. Logan, and two sisters, Miss Elizabeth Logan and Miss Margaret Logan.

It became apparent since the week-end that Judge Logan was doomed to lose his battle against death, the last relentless adversary no old soldier, however brave, can defeat.

Judge Logan came of an old South Boston family of soldiers. His father, Colonel Lawrence J. Logan, commanded the old Ninth Regiment of the Massachusetts National Guard, including the days of the Spanish War.

GENERAL EDWARD LOGAN AND WIFE
Death Struck Down Wartime Leader

COMMANDS NINTH

A student at Harvard when the Spanish-American War broke out, Judge Logan left college to go to war. After the war he remained active in the peacetime programs of the Ninth, rising successively through the commissioned ranks to become regimental commander.

On his return from service in the Spanish War, Judge Logan attended Harvard Law School, graduating and being admitted to the bar in 1901.

While still a law student, he was elected to the city council, entering on a political career which saw him serve successively in the council and then in the Legislature as representative and senator. He missed winning the Democratic nomination to Congress by only two votes.

LED TROOPS IN BATTLE

Judge Logan saw active military service both in peace and war time. As commander of the Massachusetts Ninth, he directed the regiment's work in the Lawrence strike, and later commanded his troops on the Mexican border.

When the World War broke out, the Ninth and components of several other regiments were combined to form the 101st Infantry of the Yankee Division, and Judge Logan was given its command, to take the regiment through several engagements on the Western Front.

After the war, he commanded the Yankee division, and when he retired in 1928, the rank of lieutenant general was created for him, making him the first soldier ever to be so honored in the history of the Commonwealth.

NAMED AN JUDGE

Judge Logan's career on the bench began in 1907, when he was appointed an associate justice of the South Boston court. He became presiding justice in 1914, left his position to take part in the war, and returned after demobilization.

In 1930, he was appointed to administer the $6,000,000 George Robert White fund by then Mayor Curley, one of the two highest paid jobs in the city. He retired from the position four years ago.

Judge Logan had served as president of the South Boston Bar Association and as State department commander of the American Legion, and had held many other honors, both public and private.

TRIBUTES TO LOGAN POUR IN

Expressions of regret and tributes to his ability as a man, a soldier and a jurist poured in upon his family today when news was broadcast of the death of Judge Edward L. Logan of South Boston district court.

Some of the tributes from outstanding citizens follow.

JOSEPH B. ELY, former governor—"He was a great soldier, lawyer and judge. He was a wonderful friend. I always found his advice to be unselfishly given in the interests of all the people."

BRIG. GEN. CHARLES N. Cole—"To me, Logan's death is a personal loss. He was an intimate friend, a loyal associate. He was an upright public servant."

MALCOLM E. NICHOLS, former mayor—"News of his death came as a personal shock. His influence in the community always was for the best."

JOHN F. FITZGERALD — "I was the last to bid him good bye when he left for France. He asked me to tell the folks how proud he was to lead the first state regiment overseas, the old Fighting Ninth."

SENATOR WALSH—"He was an outstanding example of the citizen soldier, a public servant of the highest integrity."

ALVAN T. FULLER, former governor—"He was a fine soldier and a mighty fine citizen. I counted him a friend."

JAMES M. CURLEY, former governor—"In the nationwide death of General Logan, city, state and nation share the loss. No man ever served his countrymen with greater fidelity."

ANN SOTHERN

Ann Sothern's Hubby Broke

CHICAGO, July 7 (AP)—A voluntary bankruptcy petition filed in federal court by Roger Pryor, scion of a family of band leaders, listed his assets today at $753 – including only $3 cash against liabilities of $41,145.41.

He gave a Chicago hotel as his residence and said he was unemployed at present.

Pryor's liabilities included $37,000 owed to Priscilla M. Frierson, his first wife. They were divorced in 1936 and she later married an army officer stationed at Fort Riley, Kan. Pryor married Ann Sothern, screen comedienne.

said in her suite at the St. Moritz hotel. "He told me to go at once to my father's home in Budapest, and that he would come for me in a week. That was the end of our marriage. Whenever he wanted to see me after that, he had to cross the border.

"He had been warned by Goebbels to get rid of me."

She met Froelich in Cannes after their divorce, she said, and he told her of the battle with Goebbels. He is not, she said, married to Lida Baarova, but was very attentive to her. T

TELLS OF SOCK

"My husband told me: 'I was driving out from Berlin one evening. I noticed Goebbels' car parked by the road on a little drive leading to my house. I walked up to the car and found him with Baarova. I opened the door and gave him one good one.

"The 'one good one' means what you say 'sock!'"

That happened around June 8, 1938, and was followed by the horse-whipping episode last December. Miss Alpar, who arrived Wednesday from Buenos Aires on the liner, Northern Prince, said she tried to get in touch with Froelich sometime ago.

"I got a little note," she said. "In it he said he was well, and working. It included some stills of a motion picture. Since then I have heard nothing."

800 DEFY WPA WORK ORDER

Rhode Island, where 600 men walked out on a Cranston sewer construction job and on several Providence projects.

The WPA state headquarters in Providence was picketed.

Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont reported "dissatisfaction" among WPA workers, but no actual strikes.

One group of New Hampshire woodcutters joined a temporary walkout, but returned to the job after the situation was explained to them.

Meantime, in Boston, agitators were active in attempts to organize strikes that might cripple many WPA construction projects such as the new Huntington avenue subway.

More than 500 employes assembled in front of Mechanics Hall to hear agitators urge a general strike. Police cars were rushed from headquarters, Back Bay and South End stations to the scene of the meeting and the laborers resumed work, but promised to reach a decision before tonight.

"FIGHT TO FINISH"

In New York, 15,000 workers were reported on strike and labor leaders said the number would grow to 25,000 today. In Detroit, 45,000 workers on 350 WPA projects voted to strike next Tuesday.

Cleveland reported 5000 idle and similar walkouts loomed in Minneapolis, Toledo, Rochester, N. Y., and other key cities.

It will be a "fight to the finish" to force congressional reconsideration of the new federal relief act, leaders of the workers organizations warned.

Although failing to give sanction to any strike, and asserting that any walkout would be "individual action," the executive council of the Boston Building Trades Council at a hastily called meeting recommended a special state convention of construction workers at Worcester, July 15.

It is planned to invite Sens. Walsh and Lodge and all Massachusetts congressmen to the session to hear personally the rose of disapproval of the congressional action in jacking up hours of labor while leaving pay at the same level.

Ernest A. Johnson, secretary of the council, following the meeting warned local construction workers that the present situation is not similar to that in which a strike two years ago won quick change in regulations from the President.

"We cannot strike against Congress or the law," Johnson declared, "and any strikes at this time would be such an action. It will have to be through Congress that the law must be amended.

"At our special convention we will demand Bay State representatives in Washington launch such a move at once, and will take any action which the convention votes."

Boston has more than 7000 of its 25,000 construction workers engaged on WPA projects.

In Springfield, the Building Trades Council issued notice it would take action following a meeting July 14, with possibility of walkout of several hundred in the area.

In issuing the "return to work or be fired" edict Commissioner Harrington called attention of the workers to the fact that Congress in passing the relief act had required workers to contribute 130 hours a month, an increase over the present 70 to 80 hours.

"The hours are a requirement of law—no official of the WPA has any authority to depart from it," Harrington declared.

Garner Won't Run On 3d Term Ticket

WASHINGTON, July 7 (INS)—Vice-President John Nance Garner, while in a receptive mood toward the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940, is unalterably opposed to running again with President Roosevelt on a third term ticket, friends disclosed today.

The Vice-President feels so strongly against violation of the third-term tradition, they say, he will retire to private life next year rather than become the running-mate of Mr. Roosevelt for a third term.

If Mr. Roosevelt is renominated, they add, Garner either will remain aloof from the campaign or publicly express his personal opposition to a third term.

WASHINGTON, July 7 (INS)—Handsome Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, rode hard around the political fences of Washington today to see just where his candidacy for the Democratic nomination in '40 stands against widespread rumors that President Roosevelt eventually would announce himself for a third term.

After 24 hours in the nation's capital, during the course of which the tall, tanned retiring high commissioner to the Philippines had a lengthy luncheon conference with the President, he was still very much in the running.

Walks Last Mile for Hitch-Hike Killing

EDDYVILLE, Ky., July 7 (AP)—Arvil Rice, 19, who pleaded guilty to murdering Walter Dorfman last July 20 after hitch-hiking an auto mobile ride, walked the last mile to death in the electric chair at the state penitentiary here early today.

Mourning Japs Mark 2d War Anniversary

TOKYO, July 7 (AP)—An undercurrent of pain, perplexity and resignation ran through quiet services with which Japan commemorated today the second anniversary of the war with China.

WINNER — Danielle Darrieux, French film star, whose right to refuse role in French picture entitled "The French Cancan" was upheld by her native court. She had been sued for $26,484 by film company.

The traditional moment of silence was observed at noon. Solemn services were conducted at all temples, shrines and Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako offered prayers at palace shrines for the repose of the souls of the dead.

Premier Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma and the entire cabinet to Yasukuni shrine, the "Japanese A[illegible]" and afterwards relatives of slain soldiers went there to pay for brief devotions. An atmosphere of great solemnity was heavy over the capital.

It is explained that Soviet Russia and Britain and France are preventing the long expected Chinese collapse. On all sides you hear:

"We are fighting three or four nations. If only the third powers would withdraw their assistance, China would collapse tomorrow."

'Daughters Courageous' Cast Wins Honors at Met

By PEGGY DOYLE

The approaching marriage of the "four daughters'" mother, Fay Bainter, introduces a new member into the family group—Donald Crisp, a rather nice if stuffy person and their prospective step-father.

• • •

John Garfield as a fisherman's son who almost marries Priscilla Lane, can cut in a rebellious performance any time. If he is not as rebellious getting married as he was in the opening chapter he's not a bad boy.

• • •

Jeffrey Lynn as Priscilla Lane's Prince Charming as he was in "Four Daughters." Here, to the fact with the script, he's just a nice boy.

• • •

Lola Lane, a "quick cut" personality, is the best actress in the picture. She's a new girl in "Daughters Courageous," a plot taken from the Dorothy Bennett-Irving White Broadway play of '35. Lily Aves, Helen Jane and Floyd Ed[illegible] are bringing it to the screen. Lola is cast as the girl who is married to the boy's pal without realizing the identity of the four Lane girls' cheating husband.

Jungle Drama Rich Film Fare for Fans

"Five Came Back," now showing on Keith-Memorial screen in company with "Career," film version of the Phil Stong best-seller is one of those unpretentious Class-B productions destined to make many a lavish Class-A'er look ousylay.

It is a compact, absorbing story excellently directed and acted and should be a money-maker for RKO.

Nutshelled to you, "Five Came Back" is the story of nine passengers and the pilot and co-pilot of a plane that crashes in a South American jungle. They are a varied group, these 11—an elderly botanist and his wrenlike, adoring wife; a slack-lipped young millionaire and his father's lovely, blonde secretary, who are eloping; a top gangster a small son and his gunman-nursemaid; a girl who is not a good girl nor a bad girl, either; an anarchist who has a rendezvous with the hangman and his detective-captor; the taciturn pilot and the ever-questing co-pilot.

Isolated from civilization, perhaps permanently, each becomes a different individual in the jungle.

When it is found that the repaired plane will safely carry but five passengers, the regenerated anarchist elects to make the selections since he of all of them has made no attachments, has no wish to return to civilization.

This provides a definitely dramatic sequence in a story that has been beautifully sustained throughout, due largely to John Farrow's fine direction. He has had almost unanimous assistance from a well-chosen cast, particularly Galleta, C. Aubrey Smith and Elizabeth Risdon, playing the scientist and his wife; Lucille Ball, as the girl who was no better than she could be; Chester Morris, as the in-love-again pilot, and Allen Jenkins, as the soft-hearted guaman.

The companion picture, "Career" has a cast headed by Edward Ellis and Jesse Lasky's Gateway-to-Hollywood discoveries, Alice Eden and John Archer.—P. D.

Hollywood Notes

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 7—Is M-G-M gradually breaking up the Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy team, with Ilona Massey stepping in as Nelson's co-star? I couldn't help wondering about this when I heard the news that the blonde Ilona, who is raring raves in "Balalaika," may get the equally blond Nelson in her next, which is to be "Vagabond King."

Too many pictures for any actress, Darryl Zanuck very wisely believes, is fatal as too few. That's why Nancy Kelly was today taken off the cast of "Here I Am A Stranger," opposite Richard Greene.

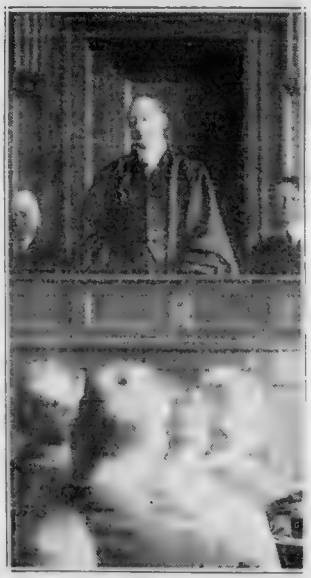
DEATH SOUNDS TAPS FOR GENERAL LOGAN

Colorful Career of Judge and Lawyer Ends in His 64th Year

A. E. F.—Commander of the Yankee Division's 101st Infantry in France, Edward L. Logan saw some of the stiffest action of the World War. This photo shows him on inspection tour "somewhere in France."

Old Scenes Revisited—Presiding Justice Logan of the South Boston court returned several times to visit old battlefields with Mrs. Logan . . . and this photo shows them aboard the S. S. Saturnia at South Boston.



Colors for the 101st—Surrounded by staff officers, General Logan is pictured at presentation of colors to the 101st Infantry, which he commanded in France. Now, veterans from all over New England mourn the loss of their beloved commander.

Justice—On the bench in South Boston, Justice Logan's career was brilliant . . . although interrupted by army duty during the World War.

THE IMMIGRATION [illegible] of our government has been very much in the news recently.

The Immigration authorities have displayed great zeal in at least two notable instances. They appear determined that the letter of the law shall be strictly enforced in regard to certain aliens who are in the United States on technically illegal grounds.

FACES DEPORTATION
Mrs. Harriet A. Thompson of Charlestown with Granddaughter

So they deported a father and mother and half of their children. The other children, born in America, were allowed to stay here.

The Labor Department and its distinguished head—often so agitated about the deportation of criminals and conspirators—did not somehow think it worth while to intervene in behalf of this divided family.

Then the busy government officials found an old lady past 70, who had lived in America since girlhood. She was the widow of a United States soldier and the mother of three Americans, but the alert Immigration authorities decided that she had been here illegally for a generation.

So she, too, will be sent away to a country where she has no friends, no associations, where she will live the last few pitiful years of her existence far from everything and everybody that she holds dear. And neither Miss Perkins nor any other member of the Administration interfered to prevent her deportation.

What and commentaries these are on our Government's concept of law!

What an amazing thing it is that the Government of the great United States can and does deport half a harmless family, also a venerable and respectable old lady, separating families and breaking up homes, and at the same time finds it impossible to get rid of dangerous and harmful radical agitators like the Communists who have disturbed our industrial peace, who are the real destroyers of our Merchant Marine, and who continue now insolently to foster discord in that great national asset so useful in time of peace and so essential in time of war!

Why does our Government persecute the weak and truckle to the bold?

Why this stern adherence to the LETTER of the law in cases which have no political protection, and this cynical disregard for the SPIRIT of the law in the case of those who have powerful friends in office?

Let us by all means have respect for the law. But let us also have law enforcement which can be respected.

Let us have equality for the law.

Let us have protection under the law for harmless and respectable people and prosecution under the law of criminals and conspirators.

Otherwise, we may not lose respect for law, but we will certainly lose respect for a government which applies it so unwisely and so unfairly.

"HOW TO GET A JOB" is a topic that interests recent graduates, anxious to prove the usefulness of the knowledge they have acquired in high schools and colleges.

Each, therefore, will want to read the findings of Mr. King Merritt of Minneapolis, who has completed a survey embracing one hundred and ninety-three institutions of higher learning.

"Scholarship, character and adaptability," he tells us, "are essentials for landing a Job this year, with employers checking the qualification claims of applicants more carefully than ever before.

"The all around student who works hard in and out of class—yet is not the 'grind,' campus hero or beauty type—is being preferred because he will work hard after commencement.

"Character, scholarship, personality and adaptability, in the order named, are being stressed increasingly by prospective employers, who, however, are paying less attention to athletic prowess and campus popularity."

Mr. Merritt follows this combination of information and advice with the prediction that 75 PER CENT of this year's graduates of all the country's major colleges, universities, technical and normal schools will be in permanent positions before summer ends.

Guardian Angel

I HAVE a guardian angel who always hovers near . . . and while he watches out for me, there's nothing I need fear . . . By day he's ever at my side, though hidden from my sight . . . When fall the shades of eventide, he guards my bed by night . . .

Although I cannot see him, I know that he is there . . . and that he holds me gently in his ever-watchful care . . . For when the window's open and the south wind softly sings . . . you can—if you are listening—hear the rustling of his wings.

LUXURY TRAVEL FOR AIR-MINDED VACATIONISTS
Does It Spell Doom for Big, Million-Dollar Estates?

UNDER THE WILL of the late Ralph Pulitzer various servants and secretaries receive amounts from $2000 to $10,000. This recognition of long service by bequests is occurring much more frequently than it did a decade or two ago.

It is interesting to observe this trend at a time when the continuity of generations is broken as it never was before and when the memorial estate, once passing through the lives of many descendants, is a thing of the past.

THE TWO factors may be related. In the securely based, securely held private estate, feudalism projected itself farther into the industrial age than in any other aspect, and in this carry-over some of the none-too-many social values of the feudal era were preserved. Unbroken tenure and security for the sons and grandsons of servants, as well as masters, was assured.

To a lesser degree than in England and France, this was true of the earlier America. Those old New England houses, which have grown like a coral reef as new generations came along, give testimony to that. But in this day, a servant who in many years of allegiance has become virtually a member of the family may be set adrift. Hence, it would appear, the increasing number of bequests to old family retainers.

The regal estate of the late Otto Kahn in Long Island goes to the New York Department of Sanitation, to provide rest and recreation for hundreds of persons. If Otto Kahn had had many sons and daughters and many grandchildren, the estate no doubt would have remained in the family, and the servants with them.

But, today, taxation is the headless spectre. Even in England, where they have gotten used to merely ectoplasmic ghosts, and rather look upon them as standard equipment, this all-pervasive spook of the post-war years is driving them out.

Here in America the stately mansion, with its wide sweep of lawns and copse, its swimming pools and racing stables and perhaps a golf course, becomes a sanitarium or a school, or is turned over to some other institutional or governmental uses; a lesser establishment may become a hotel, boarding house, or, as frequently in Saratoga, a beauty parlor or palmist's or clairvoyant's lair.

Whatever it becomes, it is, in this incarnation, a white elephant.

HOWEVER, it isn't taxation alone that spells the doom of the great estate in America. It is, to a great degree, mobility. It is easy these days to roll down to Florida in the winter.

Why should a rich man burden himself with a huge estate, with its tremendous costs of upkeep, its murderous taxation, and the never-failing danger that somebody may stick up a glue factory across the road?

Political Parade -:- by GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, July 7—Some powerful forces and influences are at work in Washington for a complete overhauling of the oppressive tax structure which is holding back national recovery.

A definite move probably will be made very shortly in the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, for the creation of a joint congressional tax committee of House and Senate to study this whole problem in the light of recent bitter experience.

Originally it was the intention of those who have advanced this proposal to have this joint committee begin hearings next Autumn, with a view to having a report ready for consideration in January.

LATELY, and largely as a result of the recent testimony before the Ways and Means Committee of John W. Hanes, undersecretary of the Treasury, there has been talk at the Capitol of having this proposed tax committee get down to business at once.

It has been the intention of the leaders to keep the House in session only briefly, with recesses of three days each.

The country has too great a stake in recovery to permit the lawmakers to lapse into a state of complete inertia, without a single constructive effort to put an end to the intolerable state of unemployment and business stagnation.

PROFESSOR HANSEN
Favors Candid, Tax Study

It attracted less attention than the statement of Undersecretary Hanes, but a statement was made before the temporary National Economic Committee, in late May, bearing on the relation of taxation to recovery—and incidentally revealing, for the first time the genesis of Mr. Roosevelt's new $4,000,000,000 spending and boost-yourself-by-your-bootstraps scheme. We shall deal with the origin, and an analysis of that brilliant dream of billions tomorrow. For the moment, let us stick to taxes.

The statement before the O'Mahoney Committee was made by Dr. Alvin Harvey Hansen, professor of economics at Harvard, and one of the current big shots of the 1939 edition of the original Moley brain trust.

HOW to restore prosperity, and full employment! That was Dr. Hansen's text. This is what he said.

"There is widespread belief among many competent leaders in the business community and elsewhere that the reform of certain features in our corporate tax structure is desirable in order to remove repressive effects on expansion.

"This opinion justifies, it seems to me, a candid and exhaustive study of our entire tax structure, Federal, State and local."

There is an opinion from within the ranks of the New Deal economic advisors.

It is about time the Democratic House of Representatives shook off its lethargy, and began to do something to put an end to the Roosevelt depression.

Up to date its record in that respect has been exactly zero.

BUYER FINDS OIL ON DEMPSEY RANCH

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, July 7 – For the last 15 years Jack Dempsey has owned two pieces of property which he has been anxious to sell . . . The first is a ranch in Nevada. Dempsey finally sold that a short time ago – and the new owner struck oil there. The second piece of property is a hotel in California. After long negotiations, Dempsey finally located a purchaser. He was to go to California to close the deal last week – the day before he was stricken.

REVENGE: Charles Laughton is very much disturbed at the editor of a magazine, who, in referring to his personal traits, were not very much impressed by his manliness . . . "I'll be those editors when I face them". . . "You're practicing what?" the puzzled guest asked . . . Laughton struck his captain pose . . . "I," he shouted, "am practicing—boxing." WHAT'S THIS ABOUT "BATTERIES?" . . . One or two of our most conservative turf writers (have you bought your tickets yet for the turf-writers' jubilee at the Copley-Plaza Tuesday next? it will be a wonderful night!) have regaled their readers with items anent the fuss caused Wednesday when the use of a battery was suspected by a jockey at Suffolk Downs . . . A battery is an appliance known technically as a "joint" or "ol' thunder and lightnin'," and its pressure against the hide of a horse has been known to excite an animal into a surprise charge which eats up ground . . . Horsemen will tell you that the importance of "ol' thunder and lightnin'" is grossly exaggerated . . . But, in the public mind or among what Eddie Mack would call the "half smarts," the device has come to be accepted aliens with stimulation by use of drugs, as a positive means of increasing a horse's speed . . . This is by no means true . . . Of course, there are some horses which respond to a battery . . . a few days ago, a horse was given a work-out with an exercise boy batting his rump with a battery and the nag – a "counterfeit" horse if ever there was one – breezed a mile in something less than the 1:42 given officially as his time . . . The "boys" were primed for a killing . . . It didn't come off . . . The horse was knocked down to moderate odds, and "all conditions suited," as they say professionally, but the animal was in a perverse mood and something perhaps the surprising time of his workout knocked him into a dull performance when the chips were down . . .

* * *

THE INCIDENT WEDNESDAY was a case of mistaken suspicion . . . Somebody must have whispered something to the stewards and eight or nine sleuths were dispatched to the first turn in search of a doctored battery . . . It wasn't found . . . But supposing a battery had been found? . . . Who was to prove its ownership? A finger-print expert, maybe . . . On those rare occasions when batteries are used in New England racing, it is done by principals than a single jockey to get away with the use . . . And the time to detect a "joint" is before a race starts, not after its running.

* * *

SCIENCE HAS BEEN BROUGHT to bear on the problem of "How Best to Fool a Steward" . . . This column, naturally, knows nothing of the developments . . . But it positively refuses to make a suggested suggestion that the stewards hold a lineup after every race and make all jockeys open their mouths wide and say "Ah!" . . . That would be absurd . . . It seems that the problem is the simple one of determining the integrity of owners and trainers and jockeys on the grounds . . . Although there is a school of thought in horsey circles that a battery might as well be as much a part of regular equipment as spurs . . . It's liberal, but frank – that school

Will God Save a Weed And Waste a Man?

By Elsie Robinson

YOU'RE AFRAID of death. Desperate at the thought of the loved ones who have died. Will you go on . . . will they? Will you know each other, if you do?

There is a commonplace little plant called "the horse-tail rush." You've seen it often along railways . . . in waste fields and sandy lands.

And yet that "horse-tail rush" is the most curious and significant growth on earth. It belongs to the mysterious family of the "Pteridophyta," a form of life which functions according to a long-lost pattern. The ferns belong to that family, too. And the "club mosses" you pass so casually, on a woodland hike. They are all part of a life that has passed . . . the sole, surviving memory of a form of life that flourished before Man came.

Nobody knows why it was made in the first place . . . why it was given its peculiar pattern of growth . . . its strange mixture of minerals . . . what particular purpose it served. BUT IT SERVED SOME CERTAIN PURPOSE – SOME PURPOSE NO OTHER PLANT COULD SERVE, YOU MAY BE SURE OF THAT! AND, BECAUSE OF THAT PURPOSE, IT HAS BEEN PRESERVED. Despite its countless births and deaths . . . springs and winters . . . it has continued to live BECAUSE GOD DOES NOT WASTE THAT OVER WHICH HE HAS LABORED!

THE MANY BOSTON friends of Eloise Bergland will be delighted to hear that this charming Wilmington, Delaware, society girl is to become a member of Beantown's young married set . . .

Her engagement to David Worcester, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Elwood Worcester of Marlborough street, is being announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Scott Bergland of Wilmington and North Hatley, Quebec.

ELOISE BERGLAND

The bride-to-be, who has been a frequent guest at Boston society parties during her course at Radcliffe, received her college degree the last month and attended Concord Academy and Miss Schoff's school in Paris . . . She was presented in Wilmington and Baltimore society.

Mr. Worcester, whose father is a retired rector of Emmanuel Church, studied at Groton and Harvard and graduated from Hobart College in 1929 . . . He received his doctor's degree from Harvard where he is now a member of the English department . . . He is also senior tutor at Lowell House . . . His clubs include the Signet Society, Phoenix-S. K., the Badminton and Tennis and the Harvard Club of Boston . . . No date has been set for the wedding.

* * *

ACCORDING to the 4000 printed announcements which the committee sent out for the opening of the Presbrey pool at the Longwood Cricket Club, "men may wear trunks and the ladies are to wear bathing caps" . . . and after the cards were mailed several conscientious members had a few anxious moments when they realized that the phraseology might be misinterpreted! . . .

Their fears were put at rest however, when, true to Boston's conservative tradition, the ladies who came to try an initial dip in the pool wore modish bathing suits as well as caps . . .

The club was a summer afternoon Utopia . . . Small tables were set out on the awninged porch where the guests could sit and sip iced drinks and feel as cool as the proverbial cucumber, in contrast to the players running about on the sun baked tennis courts . . .

An orchestra provided a soft musical background, and exhibition swimming and diving in the new pool added a final note of cooling enjoyment . . .

The Nelson Aldriches sat with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Shaw, Clement Burnholme and Bob Almy in portable chairs set up beside the pool . . . the glamorous Mrs. Aldrich waving an ivory cigarette holder in a pink gloved hand as she chatted gayly with her companions . . . The gloves added a sophisticated touch to her pink and ivory striped linen dress, and her blonde curls were encircled by a white fishnet turban . . .

Tennis Fans Flock to Opening

MANY OF OUR local tennis fans were present . . . Horace Slade shuttled back and forth from the porch to the refreshment tables, attentively carrying drinks out to a group of friends which included Mrs. Reginald Ward, Mrs. Frank Shaw, Jr., and Mrs. J. Brooks Fenno, Jr., who were watching the latter's husband on the courts . . .

Anne Whicher, with her initials embroidered in cyclamen on her blue linen dress, made a twosome with Virginia Stebbins, who had just returned from Priscilla Swift's house party at Westport. Mrs. James Moss, who regularly attends all the big tournaments at Longwood, wore a nice turquoise linen which was perfect for spectating . . . Her open crowned hat was of the same fabric and trimmed with brown . . . canvas . . . She and her little daughter enjoyed the diving exhibitions while Mr. Moss attended to his duties as one of the club's officers . . .

Virginia Rice Johnson's attention was diverted from the sports events to the more urgent business of answering telegrams and letters from leading tennis stars entered in the national doubles and the Longwood Bowl tournaments . . . She's chairman of the ladies' tennis committee this year, and of course is a national ranking player herself . . .

Mrs. Arthur Ingalls, in a turquoise and dubonnet printed dress, with a natural straw hat trimmed with dubonnet, upheld her reputation as one of our best dressed tennis fans, and Frannie Seaver also looked like a fashion plate in her fuchsia and white redingote outfit . . .

New Canned Fish Recipes

By MARTHA LEE

Nobody knows better than does the busy homemaker the blessings of having a well stocked pantry shelf during hot summer weather.

Friday, or "fish day," was once the bugbear of the meal planner, especially during hot days when preparing fish was such a nuisance. However, delicious canned fish can now be included on your pantry shelf along with vegetables, soups, salads and many other foods. And there's such an interesting variety of canned fish to be had. Inquire the next time you are at your grocers and see the number of kinds you can buy—codfish, mackerel, finnan haddie, tuna, salmon, fish chowders, and stews—all ready to use.

Think of canned seafood when you plan to serve fish again. Here are but a few suggestions for serving this tasty and healthful food:

CREAMED FINNAN HADDIE

1 jar finnan haddie
2 tbsp. butter
1 cup milk
½ cup cream
1 tbsp. flour
1 tbsp. minced parsley
¼ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper

Remove the fish from jar, cover with lukewarm water and bring slowly to boiling point. Reduce heat and keep fish just below boiling point for 15 minutes, then drain. Make a cream sauce of the butter, flour, milk, cream, and seasonings. Stir in the fish and cook five minutes. Serve sprinkled with parsley.

SPOON FISH CAKES

1 can [fish] to fry codfish cakes
1 egg
½ tbsp. butter
1 tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. pepper

Empty fish cakes into a bowl, add pepper, butter and baking powder. Mix with a fork and add egg lightly beaten. Beat mixture until fluffy and light, drop by the spoonful into deep hot fat (hot enough to brown a scrap of bread in 40 seconds). Fry to a golden color, drain thoroughly on brown paper and serve immediately on a heated platter.

RHODE ISLAND STYLE FISH CHOWDER

1 can haddock chowder
½ tsp. soda
1 cup strained tomatoes

Remove chowder from can and heat. Add soda to tomatoes and heat in separate pan. Mix tomatoes and chowder and bring to boiling point, but do not boil. Season to taste and serve piping hot with crackers.

ROE CROQUETTES

1 can deep sea roe
A grating of nutmeg
½ cup soft bread crumbs
2 cups cream sauce
1 tsp. grated onion
½ tsp. salt
1 tbsp. chopped [parsley]
A dash of [pepper]
2 hard boiled eggs, chopped fine

Cover the roe with boiling water, salt slightly and simmer 15 minutes. Drain, season, and mash. Then mix well with crumbs and egg and allow to cool. Shape into croquettes, dip in crumbs, then in beaten egg diluted slightly with water, then in crumbs again. Fry in deep fat until brown. Serve at once.

Lincoln Filene Warns Business

That is the burden of [illegible] appearing in the current edition of the Harvard Business Review . . .

J. R. MINIFIE A. W. INGALLS

SILENT . . . Legislative friends, Mr. Filene asserts, give this warning in no uncertain terms . . . No [illegible] point is endowed with [illegible] as he reviews [illegible] pts by business [illegible] control and [illegible] angled out [illegible] Mr. [illegible] Federal [illegible] by the [illegible] tendency to regulate prices and good habits into business behavior . . . The language [illegible] And to the extension of commission power over unfair practices "in [illegible] as well as "in connection [illegible] particular attention . . .

THE WARNING . . . To business to put its house in order is not given without advice as to how it may be best accomplished . . . Mr. Filene proposes a definite code for control of unfair practices in distribution . . . He points out that a [illegible] panel for voluntary co[illegible] buyers and sell[illegible] ed by a large na[illegible] ittee of distinguished business and professional leaders . . . The proposed machinery would include . . . Working out and enforcement on a joint code of unfair trade practices . . . and establishment of an independent "clearing house" . . . to be jointly supported by the participating groups to receive complaints of violations, and warn violators . . . While Mr. Filene points out that no penalties are possible under this system he does believe its activities would have a strong moral pressure on the "chiseling minority" to conform . . .

ANNOUNCEMENT . . . Has been made that as of July 1, 1939 the name of Ingalls-Advertising has been changed to Ingalls Minifie Co. . . . The expansion of business and wider scope of executive responsibilities has made this a logical step for the company, one of Boston's largest advertising agencies . . . There will be no changes in the officers of the company . . . Arthur W. Ingalls is president; J. Raymond Minifie is vice president; Clinton Jordan is also a vice-president; and Frederick S. Thompson is treasurer . . . The Ingalls-Minifie Co. strongly believes in the power and effectiveness of newspaper advertising . . . A fact evidenced by the large proportion of their clients' appropriations devoted to this medium . . .

POOR Young PEOPLE

By MAY EDGINTON
Author of 'FAVORITE WIFE'

PUNCH VANNER slipped his hand through Day's arm. How thin it was, how frail and soft! She wore something he remembered only too well, her wedding dress of flowered silky stuff, mixing white and green and blues smartly on a dark ground, short and trim. She had changed into this dress as the most suitable she had

Punch was not so casually unobservant as people supposed. He wasn't really a casual man at all. The dress brought back to him the sharp picture of a wedding luncheon at the Ritz just a little over a year ago

Suddenly he saw that Day was seeing this also. It was an odd little memory between them, and from smiling together at the baby, they looked across the perambulator and aimed at the crucial occasions they had shared.

Because, now he thought of it—and he had been thinking hard during the fast drive down they had [illegible] each other nearly always on occasions crucial to one or both of them.

[illegible] Hanean beach, he had slipped his [illegible] big was pleasure to all that had happened to her since. And when [illegible]

Oh yes. You've got that baby [illegible] afraid." You're a [illegible] inactive—going to improve. Wait till you know the world better, and [illegible] compensations. You'll have temptations."

He stopped walking, and, his hand in her arm, made her stop [illegible]

"I'm afraid I know [illegible]

He felt impelled to [illegible] if he confessed his own [illegible]

"She's meant to, all along. It's just sheer perverseness and vanity on her part. A man she can't get because she didn't even think of her. But now she's had him alone, playing up to him, giving him all he thinks he likes

"Oh, don't hate me for telling you! But she's had plenty of chance to make him change his mind. I want to help you, Day, not to make you as wretched as I am; but God knows I just don't know how! You'd help me, wouldn't you?"

"If I could," she almost gasped

"Sorry," Punch said. "I ought not to talk to you like this. Only, remember, I'm near you, within a call—any time. And why shouldn't we . . . help each other out?"

He hadn't yet said [illegible] which was his main reason for rushing down here, and he couldn't say it

They began walking again. Punch's hand warm and firm and comforting in her arm

He asked her in a practical [illegible] lon about her resources. She found herself telling him all. About Burne's obtuseness and [illegible] ance of her plight and his pro[illegible] fuller, and how his [illegible] naturally bent had [illegible]

Terns Ignore Guns On Kennedy Estate

HYANNISPORT, July 7 (AP)—The laws that protect migratory birds do not, it appeared today, apply to the terns that have invaded the summer estate of Joseph P. Kennedy, U. S. ambassador to Great Britain.

John F. Fitzgerald, former mayor of Boston, who is spending a part of the summer at the Kennedy estate, said that the terns appeared to be unafraid of the guns of the coast guard posts. But the officer today was unable to locate the little birds, and Fitzgerald's shotgun remained in its rack.

NOW! A NEW LOAN PLAN

Pick your own monthly repayment

You can borrow from $20 to $300 without asking others to sign with you. Decide on the amount of cash you need, then choose the payment which suits your budget. You may repay in 2 to 20 months, as your income permits. Below is a table showing sample repayment schedules. Other amounts and other plans are available. Note how you may repay your loan in a very few months to keep the cost to a minimum. Note, also, what small payments can be made if you wish.

AUSTEN LAKE

Carrigan to Manage Old Timers Team

A BIT OF PUBLICITY FLIMSY FROM the Veterans of Foreign Wars arrives in this corner today. It says simply, "Bill Carrigan has agreed to manage one of the teams in the Old Timers game at Fenway Park on July 12."

AUSTEN LAKE

Not long ago Bill made one of his rare public appearances at a Boston sports party, one of those giggle-and-gargle feasts. He looked a little withered about the jaws. His thinning hair was quite silvery and his speech was just as monosyllabic. He answered "Yes," or "No" and sometimes grunted "Mmmmm." And presently, when his friends turned to look for him, he was gone again.

Always that way, was Bill. A hunter of solitude who twice fled baseball at the top of his popularity. He had hated the hustle of sport crowds, the round of Pullman jumps, the yammer of the players' bench and the journalists' intrusion on his privacy. So he quit a $25,000 job to raise prize poultry and go back to the quiet backwaters with his family. He is a quaint cuss by our citified standards!

I never tired of studying Carrigan when he first returned to manage Bob Quinn's raggety Red Sox. Yet somehow I never managed to penetrate the mystery of the man who lived behind a grim, gray mask from which peered shrewd, examining eyes, like windows in a granite jail. Not that Bill wasn't friendly in his grave, guarded way. Or that he didn't have a heavy, good humor of a patented sort. But through his three years with Quinn he tolerated baseball as a pious penitent might wear a hair shirt and said when he came back, "I'll do my best. But I won't worry a lick." He did and he didn't!

City Sage or Local Yokel?

I USED TO WATCH BILL SITTING like a hen in the midst of his scatterbrained brood. They mixed their feet and missed his signals! They went into cackling hysterics and fired infield clods at each other! They gave hotel clerks the horrors! But amid the hilarious hoople Bill [illegible] and [illegible] and no fuss no profanity no [illegible]

And finally a yearning to get back to Beulah, his children, his Down East cronies and his prize chickens boiled up in his soul and he quit the job over Quinn's protest, returning to the oblivion of a county Squire. Strange Mixt

Yes, Bill tossed away $25,000 and National celebrity like the crusts of a picnic lunch and hurried back to rustic simplicity. He didn't need the money! He resented attention! He hated crowds! All he asked was to stroll down Lowell's arboreal streets, sniff the odors of the woods, hear the cackle of his henyards and perform the routine of a rural father. Solid man!

What dreams he saw, what ambitions he nursed, what hopes he fashioned, we who rode on the coattails of the Red Sox never learned. For either Bill was a romantic yokel with a treasure store of cracker-barrel philosophy who liked to brood on cosmic problems and flash the beam of his intelligence inward through the caverns of his soul, or he was just a mental vacuum who distrusted the sound of his own voice, the worth of his own ideas and lived in a mental mist. As I say, I never knew.

But I prefer to think of him in the former light. Because, he had too tight a hold on the rowdy Red Sox juveniles of his time, men like the late Ed Morris, Howard Ehmke, Hal Rogell, Bill Regan, Jack Rothrock and a herd of other underdone urines.

Seven Who Passed

IN EIGHTEEN YEARS OF MIRRORING sport opinion (Gawsh!) I have sat behind eight Red Sox managers come and go, beginning with Frank Chance, that chino to swain whose blasphemies were an eloquent contribution to baseball English, and ending with Joe Cronin, a parlor type who set himself up as a loving leader.

Well there was Lee Fohl, a lonely man who screamed inwardly and silently, and between games sat in solitary with his mastiff's jowls hanging, pink, on his shoulders. To us reporters Lee grumbled querulous nothings and in his imitation seemed to pray, "Lord, keep my patience. Let me not suck these pests."

Then came Carrigan and afterward Heinie Wagner, a Weber & Fields, Dutch vaudeville type who walked around like a papa bear, a morose man who, because he was conscious of his inefficiency, spurned suggestions and spent his evenings sucking a pipe.

Later came Shano Collins, an anxious, uneasy body who tried to play big brother to his frisky brood and finally jumped overboard in a fit of fractious nerves and paddled ashore before his sanity collapsed.

And then Marty McManus, a stop gap manager and a suspicious, jittery soul who kept his luggage packed for a quick getaway in case he got fired (S'help me, S'truth!) And then Bucky Harris, the ex-slate pucker and colliery boy who was first under the Yawkey regime. Bucky was an earnest, able and baseball wise gent who gradually became too refined for his own good.

And finally Joe Cronin, who keeps his face wreathed in a cheery purker and chirps happy hellos to everybody despite the cloud in his blue eye. And to Joe's great credit though he is doubling in brass he has never come down with the screaming meemies.

So, in all eight managers only one remains a real enigma. I guess from a baseball viewpoint Bid Carrigan will remain the man who nobody knows. Stout Fella.

Briton Edges Bulla For British Golf Title

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 7 (INS)—Perilously close to being removed to the United States for a time today while Johnny Bulla of Greensboro, N. C., and Chicago, was out in front of the field, the British open golf championship was finally retained by one of England's own when Dick Burton completed the 72 holes in 290 to succeed Reginald Whitcombe as wearer of the crown.

Bulla had thrilled a gallery of 4000 with his tremendous drives in playing today's two 18-hole rounds in sub par 71 and 73 to move to the front with a 292 as most of the rest of the contenders wilted.

He was virtually conceded the title until Burton, who had shot a third round 77, began to blaze through his afternoon round, finishing with a 71.

Bulla's 292 was exactly even with par for the four rounds, but was still not enough in the face of Burton's finale which was his third sub par round of the four played.

Thus the overnight leader, after the first two rounds completed yesterday, went onto victory, but it was Bulla who gave the gallery a thrill and startled the staid Scots with the close approach he made to being the first American to take the title since 1933 when Denny Shute came through.

Bulla today was the sole American in the field of 34.

Here's Johnny Bula, long hitting Chicago professional, whose fine closing spurt gave him 292 total and second place in British open golf championship. Bulla seemingly had title in pocket when along came Dick Burton of England with a last round 71 to snatch the coveted prize from the Carolina born boy with a 72-hole score of 290.

RIGGS WINS WIMBLEDON NET FINAL

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 7 (AP)—Bobby Riggs of Chicago beat his roommate and doubles partner, Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., 2–6, 8–6, 3–6, 6–3, 6–2, today in the All American final of the All England tennis championship.

Though he was within a point of losing the first two sets, Riggs, playing with that sublime nonchalance which has baffled the British critics, pulled Cooke back almost as he liked and never really looked like a loser after the start of the fourth set.

Riggs, making his debut at Wimbledon (now has won 13 straight from Cooke, who was not even considered good enough by the United States [illegible] to have his [illegible] expenses paid to the tournament.

The only other American ever to win the Wimbledon [illegible] visit was Ellsworth Vines in 1932.

Riggs got a valuable lead in the fifth and final set, but Cooke dragged him back level at 2–2. However, Bobby broke through his roommate's service for a vital advantage in the fifth game when Cooke missed two whistling baseline drives by inches.

Bobby won the sixth to love for a 4–2 lead. After that he simply ran away as he liked.

In the semifinals of women's doubles, Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Calif., and her English partner, Billy Yorke, defeated Jean Nicoll and Betty Nuthall of England, 5–7, 6–4, 11–9.

Before Riggs and Cooke put in their appearance, Alice Marble of San Francisco, and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Cambridge, Mass., combined to enter the finals of the women's doubles. They defeated Kay Stammers and Mrs. S. H. Hammersley of Great Britain, 8–6, 6–3.

All-Star Game Starts at 2.00

CHICAGO, July 7 (AP)—The starting time of the all-star baseball game next Tuesday at New York between picked teams of the American and National Leagues was changed today to 2 p. m. Eastern Daylight Time by K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball.

The game originally was scheduled to start a half hour earlier. Commissioner Landis said that if rain forces a postponement, the contest will be played Wednesday starting at 11 a. m.

Pastor Signs For Louis Bout

NEW YORK, July 7 (AP)—Bob Pastor, New York heavyweight contender, formally signed a contract today to fight Joe Louis for the world's championship in September.

Neither the time nor the place was set, but Mike Jacobs, head of the 20th Century Sporting Club expects to announce Monday that the bout will be held in Briggs Stadium, Detroit, with September 21 as the probable date.

HARVARD, TABOR, KENT EIGHTS WIN; KENT FOUR LOSES

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, Eng., July 7 (AP)—Harvard won its way to the final round of the grand challenge cup competition today by beating Jesus College of Cambridge in the Royal Henley Regatta.

The Crimson, last winner of the converted trophy in 1914, finished the mile and five-sixteenths contest two lengths in front and was clocked in seven minutes 21 seconds.

The United States eight will meet the Toronto Argonauts in tomorrow's final. The Argos won their semi-final heat against Sydney, Australia.

KENT EIGHT WINS

The Jesus College crew took a half-length lead as Harvard started slowly.

At the quarter-mile mark, however, Harvard sprinted and by the time they reached the halfway post, the Americans had reduced their rivals' lead to a quarter length.

Just before the half way signal Harvard forged to the front and though the English eight raised its stroke from 34 to 37 in the final stretch, the Crimson beat off the challenge with ease.

Kent (Ct.) school won another heat in defense of the Thames Challenge Cup, defeating the Leander Rowing Club eight by three lengths.

The New England schoolboys rowed the mile and five-sixteenths in 7 minutes and 45 seconds for their third heat triumph.

Leander led slightly during the early stages, but Kent, stroking at 34 cap soon took command and was two lengths in front at the third signal.

The margin was three lengths at the finish and the Americans held it to the finish.

ANOTHER FOR BURK

The Light Boat Club crew of Philadelphia defeated Kent School of Connecticut by two lengths in the quarter-finals of the Wyfold challenge cup for fours.

The time was nine minutes and eight seconds.

Joe Burk of Philadelphia, scored a ridiculously easy victory to go into the finals in defense of the Diamond Sculls. He finished approximately nine lengths in front of L. P. Allnutt, English sculler who eliminated R. W. Bates of Cambridge, Mass., yesterday.

BEES, PHILS RENEW DIAMOND WAR TODAY

Sailor Bill Posedel, with 22 scoreless innings and two shut-out victories in his immediate wake, gets the nod from Manager Casey Stengel to do the pitching at N. L. Park this afternoon when the Bees open a four-game series with the Phillies.

It is a series in which the fighting Bees and the floundering Phils may renew the fistic fireworks set off in Quakertown last Sunday and this makes it a more attractive series.

There will be a single game today with the same order tomorrow and a double header on Sunday.

Manager Casey Stengel who threw the one punch which caused the dagger looks between the B's and Phils, hitting Merrill May on the whiskers after May had bowled over Eddie Miller sliding into second, says a sweep in this engagement, which he hopes will be crashless and swing less.

BEST HURLERS TO SHOW

Stengel is hoping for a sweep as he's got four fancy flingers ready to trot out, Posedel today, Lon Felte tomorrow and Dan MacFayden and Mil Shoffner on Sunday. All except Felte need but recent past performances to begin again where the Giants knocked them off a six-straight winning streak.

In his last two trips Sailor Bill Posedel has blanked the Cards and the Phils, shutting out the cellar dwellers last Saturday 6 to 3 giving up only six hits.

Felte although [illegible] his [illegible] his wins against three losses has been blasted out in his last three starts. Lon is much too good a pitcher to allow this to go on much later. In fact, he may let it go no longer than tomorrow.

MacFayden and Shoffner who [illegible] Bill Terry wriggle with wrath on the holiday, should take charge of the Phils on Sunday.

Bees, Red Sox Plan For Night Baseball } Local Clubs May Use Same Ball Lot

By BILL GRIMES

Pres. C. C. Patterson, Sec. Mel Merritt and State Handicapper John Corcoran have paired the field for next week's 35th Massachusetts amateur championship at the Tedesco Country Club . . . And they'll release the pairing for Sunday.

As Freddie Wright has decided not to defend his title the state amateur crown will change hands for the eighth straight year. . . . A former Judge [illegible] W. Reeve will be chairman of the Tedesco [illegible] committee and said the course is primed for the champion ship.

FRED WRIGHT

With the exception of three new holes, Tedesco will be the same as it was when Ralph Munro won the state junior championship at Swampscott in 1925 . . . Judge Reeve must have lamed the North Shore speedcars for he is, and has been for weeks devoting much of his time to perfecting every detail concerning the coming championship . . . There's nothing like that good old Rochester N. H. efficiency.

Within a year all American and National League clubs, with the possible exceptions of the New York teams will install lights for night ball . . . The promoters are convinced that the fans will go for night ball, and they realize they cannot sidestep the issue any longer . . .

If the owners of the Red Sox and Bees Yankees and Giants and Cubs and White Sox were shrewd business men there'd be only one major league ball park in Boston New York and Chicago. Each of [illegible] Philadelphia and St. Louis may have to [illegible] . . .

Imagine anyone selling up a team as a business enterprise who for no good reason elects to play his every-other-day ball park foes 22 days every year, when the schedule calls for but 77 home games, of which about 15 are postponed and converted into double headers . . .

It doesn't make sense . . . If the Red Sox and the Bees, the Yanks and Giants and the two Chicago clubs used the same ball parks for their home games, their balance sheets at the end of each fiscal year would enjoy a healthier condition.

In the event that the American and National Leagues go out on the limb for night baseball, the Boston clubs may merge for it costs more than $100,000 to install the best lights.

Bill Fleming and Jim Keefe have entered the state [illegible] at Ted[illegible] . . . Dandy Burr[illegible] Mel [illegible] Four-Ball League meet at Swampscott [illegible] and Keefe were so hot they [illegible] a shot at qualifying in the state amateur. They'll be bad news if they get into match play, and it's an even bet they both pass the 36 hole stroke competition test.

Harry A. McGrath, chairman of the golf committee has sent out the invitations for the 16th annual Winchester Country Club four-ball tournament, which will be played July 21 through 23 . . . It looks like a breeze for Sandy Burr to win the Windeler Shield for the third straight year . . . The George Wright Golf Club looks like Sandy Burr's most serious rival.

Bob List, the Little General, believes in preparedness . . . He has been working out on local driving ranges for the annual Wm. Filene's Sons Co. tournament to morrow at the Blue Hill Country Club . . . Two outstanding M. G. There will be a record breaking field at Poland Springs July 23 and 24 for the second annual Metropolitan Style open . . . New England pros are lining up three of the best amateurs they can unearth for the Poland Springs event for the money prizes are very enticing . . . Jim Ricker will be on hand to give the boys a heart felt welcome when they check in at "The Springs" . . .

A remark made by Tony Marsh sent me delving into the records of baseball . . . Tony said that one year a base on balls was credited as a hit . . . And, he was correct, as usual . . . I also discovered that in 1878 it required nine balls to walk a batter . . . But, in 1880, that number was reduced to eight . . . In '84, six . . . and, in 1887 five balls was a pass. The present nine four balls, was put into effect in 1889 . . .

While fanning at National League Field recently, Bob Quinn asked "What do you mean when you write that a pitcher was batted out of the box"? . . . The answer was "I don't know . . . I suppose I mean the rubber . . . "All right, then why write box? . . . That was a stopper . . . So Bob explained that "box" had been carried down year after year since 1893.

Prior to that season, pitchers threw from a box, which at first was four feet wide and seven and one half feet long but later it was reduced to 4x6 . . . Then, in 1893 the pitchers' rubber was installed but the baseball scribes continued to refer to hurlers being knocked out of the box, which hasn't been in existence for almost a half century . . .

IN SATURDAY'S DAILY RECORD

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

CHARLEY MOONEY calls my attention to the fact it will be 50 years on next Saturday that John L. Sullivan defeated Jake Kilrain in 75 rounds at Richburg, Miss., in a bout fought under London prize ring rules.

This meant it was the last of the bare knuckle battles. Under London prize ring rules, a round ended with a knockdown which helps account for the many bouts that lasted 60 to 75 rounds. A heavyweight like Phil Scott of England, if boxing during that period, would have boxed 100 rounds as he would have been continually going to the canvas.

I met John L. late in his life when he was living the life of a gentleman farmer at Abington.

When Jess Willard knocked out Jack Johnson, the new champion came to Boston for an exhibition at the Arena under the promotion of Bob McKirdy. Tom Jones, who managed Willard, refused to permit the title-holder to pose for a set of pictures Dick Sears wished for Cosmopolitan Magazine.

I called the matter to the attention of John L. who was going to referee the bout.

"Get your photographer and tell him to come with me," roared Sullivan.

Sears and myself followed John L. to Willard's dressing room.

When the old champion entered, Willard was swept away by his tremendous personality.

"Stand up, Jess," ordered Sullivan. "My friend Dick Sears is going to take a few pictures of you."

Willard obeyed John L.'s instructions like an obedient child.

Kilrain Hated Modern Boxing

KILRAIN HAD a bitter hatred of modern boxing. I was at Jack Sharkey's house in Newton a few nights after the latter had won the world's heavyweight championship from Max Schmeling. The bell rang and it was announced that Kilrain wanted to see Sharkey.

Sharkey asked Jake to come into the house, but the veteran said he wished to talk with the champion alone.

When Sharkey returned to the house after complying with Kilrain's request, he started to laugh.

"I have just won the heavyweight championship," said Sharkey, "and Jake Kilrain wants me to retire. He says boxing is a rotten business.

"Just when it looks as if I can make some big money, Jake wants me to walk away from the game. Of course I won't do as he asks."

In the latter years of his life, Kilrain was a watchman at the Fore River plant in Quincy. He never attended any of the important boxing bouts in Boston. He had turned his back completely on the boxing game.

On Saturday take a little time out to offer a toast to the memory of two great heavyweights, the immortal John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain.

Random Shots at Target

HENRY ARMSTRONG is still complaining of the slow progress his hands are making in healing . . . Hammering Henry realizes he will have to possess all of his hitting power when the clashes with Lou Ambers in a bout for the world's lightweight title in New York the latter part of August . . . Ambers has kept active in the ring, and should be razor sharp when he whirls into action against Armstrong.

Ambers is the only boxer who has a chance to win from Armstrong . . . Lou has the speed and cutting punch to bother the champion . . . Armstrong is too fast for punchers like Ceferino Garcia.

Teddy Williams

Teddy Williams of the Red Sox isn't the only Williams in sport. There is Teddy Williams, former Gloucester High star fullback, who is trying to win a place on one of the Notre Dame elevens. Notre Dame will go places again during the coming fall.

GLOUCESTER FAN.

Betting on Stengel

I am betting on Casey Stengel to take the decision over the entire Phillies team in the present series. "Case" proved in Philadelphia when he swatted infielder May that he has his one, two punch working well. The Bees look as if they are going places. Even Bill Terry will admit such is the case.

Frank McCarthy, Lawrence

Favors Nova

It is my opinion that Lou Nova will lose too much leather for Tony Galento when they meet in Philadelphia in the Fall. Nova isn't a terrific puncher like Joe Louis or Galento, but he keeps firing punches every second he is in the ring.

Cronin, Grove, Foxx, Pennock On Cochrane's All-Star Teams

By MICKEY COCHRANE

Mention of great players brings to mind a common practice nowadays—which is to use left-handed line-ups against a right-handed pitcher and right-handed hitters against a left-handed pitcher.

Personally, to me that has always been the bunk. I have always felt if a man could not hit one type of pitching he wouldn't hit another.

And, strange as it may seem, you'll find the great hitters, right- or left-handed, usually are fellows who can belt away and keep swinging regardless of the side from which the pitching is coming.

When the experts get down to picking an all-star team they are sometimes prone to remark that Joe Doakes isn't an all-star because he can't hit left-handed pitching.

Let's have a look at a couple of all-star teams selected from men I saw in action in my own time, and who stayed around for ten years.

First, I'll eliminate the pitchers, because on my teams in action the pitchers are going to be good enough to go the distance and win, but they will also be in there for their hitting power.

TWO STAR TEAMS

If I were to name a staff of hurlers from those I saw who had ten years in action, I'd take Grove, Herb Pennock, Walter Johnson, Waite Hoyt, Ted Lyons, George Uhle, Urban Shocker, Sam Jones and Fred Marberry.

That would be a fairly competent staff that would have very little to worry about from Johnny Comelatlies trying to push them out of the picture.

As for a couple of all-time all-star American League aggregations, how about Cobb, Speaker, and Ruth in one outfield, backed by Simmons, Combs and Goslin; with Foxx, Gehringer, Cronin and Dykes in one front line, against Bucky Harris, Lou Gehrig, Joe Sewell and Joe Dugan; and with Steve O'Neill and Muddy Ruel back of the plate to handle the slants of that aforementioned all-star staff.

What would a manager do facing a left-handed batting order of such an aggregation as this:

Rolfe, third base.
Gehringer, second base.
Ruth, right field.
Gehrig, first base.
Speaker, center field.
Dickey, catcher.
Sewell, shortstop.
Lyons, pitcher.

Or take the other side of the question, a right-handed line-up such as:

Dykes, third base.
Cronin, shortstop.
Foxx, first base.
Heilman, center field.
Meusel (Bob), right field.
Lazzeri, second base.
O'Neill, catcher.
Uhle or Ruffing, pitchers.

JIMMY DYKES

Here's a couple of batting orders to end all tricky batting orders.

But even such an array would hardly satisfy all the customers. You're usually wrong when you lose and only sometimes right when you win.

"DYKES SUCKER"

An anonymous note which always amused me most was the one in which a trade was recalled by the writer. Such as:

Poor Mike:

Why not give Rudy York a chance at third base? You know that he can't handle pitchers. Do you miss Owen and G. Walker?

Remember, you were in second place with them.

There are rumors that your head is not completely healed. Is this correct? Then why don't you go back to the infirmary?

YOU DYKES SUCKER!!!

A. ROYAL FAN.

P. S. Give Kennedy his soft pickins or your name will be mud.

All the fans do not beef, though. Once in a while a card would come like this one: "Mickey: What's the matter with that bunch of P. W. A. pitchers (does not include Bridges or Kennedy)? Are they afraid to sweat or are they just going Roosevelt? Go to it, wake them up. A Fan."

Another "ordinary fan" wrote at the same time and implored me to get Ostermueller from Boston. "... give them Wade and Eisenstat. A fellow in new environment will go places (look at Kennedy and Dixie Walker and Piet). In fact grab any good seasoned performer and to hell with temporary criticisms such as followed the Walker, Owen deal; it's results that count. . . . Methinks that in Kennedy and Hayworth you have two swell pinch hitters; and White ought to be good material for a foxy trade."

But the letter of letters was one imploring me to be a preacher and to model my career on that of Billy Sunday. At the end of five closely written pages the writer came to the point:

"Now think about this decision. You have been chastised several times and it seems that God has his eye on you. You get the book Billy Sunday: The Man and His Message. Read that book, Mr. Cochrane, even if you don't decide to change your kind of work."

Perhaps you will say that but for such interest there would be no baseball—that if the fans did not earnestly believe they owned their ball club they would have no interest in coming out to watch it play and to live and die with it in victory and defeat. And you are absolutely right. Baseball is the one game in which the fan not only believes he has rights, but expresses his belief.

In the concluding article tomorrow, Mickey Cochrane gives advice to aspiring major leaguers.

Sox Have Last Chance to Stop Flying Yanks

NEW YORK, July 7—The one last hope the Red Sox have of cutting down the Yankees to their own size and tightening up the American League pennant race presents itself today, the first of a five-game series.

They will wager you 500 to 1 the Bostonians will not sweep the series which makes the Red Sox chances of catching up with the McCarthy clan very dubious. But Manager Cronin is going to give the best he has and today will start with Fritz Ostermueller who whipped the Yanks last Sunday, 6 to 4.

There's a doubleheader slated for tomorrow and Sunday and after Lefty Grove takes a shot at the league leaders, Cronin will call on Auker to help the cause.

After that, the Sabbath selections will be just guess work. Cronin has his choice of Gaiehouse, Rich, Wilson and Weaver.

Swifty SAYS:

"Visitors to Boston won't make their trip complete unless they take in Wonderland-by-the-Sea. It's less than 20 minutes through the tunnel and a grand ride over wide and uncongested highways. Why not come down and watch these greyhound champions? It's fine entertainment."

R. B. "BUD" CARROLL, owner of greyhound champion, Rural Rube, brushes down the fleet-footed canine aristocrat after establishing new record for the 5-16 distance at Wonderland Park, Revere.

RED DAVIS TAUNTON'S TOP DOG

By THE RABBIT

TAUNTON, July 7 — For the safest wagering on tonight's card at the Taunton dog track I am taking Red Davis to win all the checks in the eighth race. This one drew the inside box and with the red blanket aboard should lead from wire to wire.

FIRST RACE—FUTURITY

(First half Daily Double)

MAMMOTH CUTLET—SPEEDY TRAFFIC—DOUBLE BACK

PP.	Dog	Odds	Wt.	Owner
2	M'mouth Cutlet	5-1	73	Pat Cawney
5	Speedy Traffic	4-1	64	Frank Lane
4	Double Back	5-1	62	F. L. Brunto
7	C'ran Quick	6-1	53	Ted Lippold
3	March	6-1	63	Paul Boone
6	Glitt'ring Rand	6-1	60	Fred Palermo
1	June McVay	8-1	49½	Ben Neal, Jr.
8	Trans Sidew'y	8-1	66	M. T. Dubiel

MAMMOTH CUTLET should win here as it drops in class, with SPEEDY TRAFFIC the one to fear. DOUBLE BACK could upset.

SECOND RACE—FUTURITY

(Second half Daily Double)

DON LASH—BABY PURTHOS—CRAG YONKER

2	Don Lash	4-1	64	Oscar Dahlberg
4	Baby Purthos	4-1	55	Pat Gavan
7	Chas Yonker	4-1	60	M. C. Sparks
5	Black Panic	5-1	55	M. T. Dubiel
8	Chimney Top	6-1	67	Jess Williams
8	Dash'g Purthos	6-1	54	M. J. Gavan
1	Judy's Glide	6-1	74	Frank Lane
6	Rax	8-1	64	Fred Sirrett

There's not much to choose between the top three here, though DON LASH should score if he breaks alertly.

THIRD RACE—5-16 MILE

BALCOE—CRAG'S PAL—BRIGHT BALLAD

8	Balcoe	3-1	65	Tom Baird
2	Crag's Pal	4-1	65	M. T. Dubiel
7	Bright Ballad	4-1	65	Tom Cook
6	Dreamy Eyes	5-1	48	F. B. Stutz
4	Chuck Andrew	6-1	60	Ernest Rhine
3	Little Frances	8-1	54	Hubert Bryant
5	Gayer	8-1	48½	F. L. Brunto
1	Big Boston	6-1	66	Ben Neal, Jr.

BALCOE should outlast this field to win with CRAG'S PAL in the forcing role. BRIGHT BALLADY If he gets the rail could take it all.

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY

FIRST OFFICER—HARVEST TIME—MONTCLAIR BOY

3	First Officer	3-1	61	Ernest Rhine
5	Harvest Time	4-1	58	Clyde Eno
6	Montclair Boy	5-1	68	Pat Gavan
2	Tyrol Chief	5-1	67	Jack Adams
4	Top Traffic	6-1	48	Frank Lane
7	Boston Melody	6-1	63	Tom Cook
1	Tragedy	8-1	49	Fred Palermo
8	Red Card	8-1	66	Forbe Spencer

FIRST OFFICER scored a fine win over this sort recently and should repeat it. HARVEST TIME could take it all with MONTCLAIR BOY dangerous.

FIFTH RACE—5-16 MILE

TENSE—RENAISSANCE—SWEET TWISTER

5	Tense	5-1	59	Tom Baird
4	Renaissance	4-1	67	Pat Gavan
6	Sweet Twister	4-1	51½	Geo. Lippold, Jr.
8	Ben's Boy	5-2	55½	Clyde Eno
2	Lou Ann	6-1	54	Fred Palermo
7	Jimmy Stafford	6-1	64½	L. Kirkpatrick
3	Sorority Crasy	8-1	57	Ben Neal, Jr.
1	Theima II	8-1	56	Everett Harmon

Dropped in with this company TENSE looks much the best. RENAISSANCE has some ability and SWEET TWISTER should show.

SIXTH RACE—½ MILE

MUTTON SUET—JIM GLENN—IRISH GLEN

4	Mutton Suet	4-1	59	M. T. Dubiel
8	Jim Glenn	4-1	62½	John Highhouse
7	Irish Glen	4-1	54	Frank Lane
7	Helen O.	5-1	51	Cedar Pt. Ken'l
6	Dusty Dan	6-1	58½	Oscar Dahlberg
2	O. W.	6-1	67½	Ben Neal, Jr.
1	Dusty War	6-1	67	Fred Sirrett
3	Lost Lamb	8-1	56	Geo. Lippold, Jr.

It's the quick dog in this sprint and MUTTON SUET the quickest in my book. The others follow close up.

SEVENTH RACE—5-16 MILE

MUTTON CALLING—ERNST BOY—TRULY

3	Mutton Call'g	3-1	70	Pat Cawney
2	Ernst Boy	4-1	66	Kyle Stephenson
3	Truly	4-1	61	Seekonk Kennel
1	Rarely Goer	5-1	65	Fred Sirrett
7	Virginia D.	6-1	53	Frank Lane
1	Mister E.S.T.	6-1	66	Cedar Pt. Ken'l
6	Coal Carrie	8-1	58	C. A. Rhodes
6	Midnight Lily	8-1	53	Ted Lippold

MUTTON CALLING scored handily its last start and should repeat. ERNST BOY is being stretched but should be close with TRULY in the money.

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY

RED DAVIS—BUDDYCO—LITTLE MUTT

1	Red Davis	4-1	59	Otto Wehinst
2	Buddyco	4-1	63	C. A. Rhodes
5	Little Mutt	4-1	57	Everett Harmon
8	Pinto Pete	5-1	71	Paul Boone
6	Jim J.	6-1	63	John Highhouse
3	Cross Marsh	6-1	54	F. B. Stutz
7	Hither To Yon	6-1	65	Fred Palermo
4	Tip Davis	8-1	55	Fred Sirrett

RED DAVIS needs only to break fast to win all the way. BUDDYCO'S last was good and makes it dangerous with LITTLE MUTT always a money chance.

NINTH RACE—5-16 MILE

FANCY JIM—MARY COLLINS—LILAC

8	Fancy Jim	3-1	71	J. L. Ayotte
4	Mary Collins	3-1	51	J. B. Hatzo
3	Lilac	6-1	56	Everett Harmon
2	Joseph Jim	6-1	75	Jess Williams
5	Playside Goldie	8-1	65½	Clyde Eno
6	Sally Tip	10-1	53	L. Kirkpatrick
1	Tom'y Tucker	10-1	64	C. H. Rogers
7	Twitter	12-1	48	Frank Lane

FANCY JIM has schooled since his last and looks right to win here with MARY COLLINS a threat. LILAC is always a dangerous second.

TENTH RACE—5-16 MILE

CAVALIER CARESS—PERNA—LION'S CUB

6	Cavalier Caress	3-1	68	C. A. Rhodes
4	Perna	4-1	58½	W. Lee Bryant
2	Lion's Cub	4-1	70	Fred Palermo
1	Hurry By	5-1	58	Fred Sirrett
3	Traffic Pat	6-1	65	G. H. Rogers
8	Polka's Court	6-1	51	Seekonk Kennel
9	Rondeboat	8-1	62	Cedar Pt. Ken'l
7	Kansas Cutlet	8-1	55	J. B. Hatzo

CAVALIER CARESS seems the best here with PERNA always bothersome. LION'S CUB if he avoids interference should be in the money.

Mackerel, Tautog Puzzle Anglers

By DARK MONTREAL

The mackerel are in and out, probably according to the wind direction and the way the bait (sperling mostly) is traveling. Lloyd Henderson, Norwell policeman, and his uncle, Bill Henderson, hit into a good school at the mouth of North River about daybreak on the holiday after Lloyd had finished a Night-Before service detail. They took 35 nice ones.

The mackerel are also up and down, and because no schools are sighted does not mean none are around. A number of big ones are being taken off Manomet Point by deeply trolled lures.

• • •

Big bluefish schools are off the Jersey coast and should arrive soon in Buzzards Bay where two-pound schoolfish are already being taken . . . School tuna and white marlin are also numerous there, many being taken by rod and reel. These also should be along soon.

The tautog season in Massachusetts Bay is slow getting under way, probably because the water remains so cold. I took eight at Saddle Rock, off Stage Point, all on sea worms. I had no luck whatever with crabs, yet every fish I cleaned had the remains of small red crabs in its digestive tract.

TUNA OFF PROVINCETOWN

Nets and harpoons continue to take tuna off the Provincetown inside shore and in Ipswich Bay and few fish weigh in at less than 300 pounds. Yet the private cruisers and the charter boats carrying rod-reel men have done nothing. Any day now will tell the story.

At Wedgeport, Nova Scotia, where the international tuna tournament will be held later in the season, the first tuna of the season taken on rod and reel was boated by Sam LeBlanc, well known guide. The fish weighed 493 pounds. The big fish are also off Ogunquit, Me., according to George Weare, who reports his fishing partner, Henry Strater, hooked and lost two, one of which straightened his hook.

J. B. Crosby is the new president of the Dennys River Salmon Club, succeeding Herb Allen who directed its destinies for three years . . . Captain Philip Pingree, John Mitchell, Sr., and William E. Mitchell report a good catch of mackerel off Cohasset.

I thought Frank Turner and I had an unusual fishing experience the other day when we both landed the same plaice; it had taken both hooks at the same time.

But the yarn the Associated Press carries about Al Cagle, retired mining engineer, goes to the top. In a Mine Fond, near Eldorado, Ill., he caught a black bass weighing 8½ pounds. His wife was fishing with him and when hubby wasn't looking she put an old fish tail on his hook hoping to see him chagrined when he reeled in. The big bass grabbed the fish tail.

Speaking of bass, Lake Cochituate, which proved such a disappointment to the small army of anglers who had permits for the opening day, is doing better. There is nothing very strange about the failure of the anglers to smash any records there.

In the first place, as the lake has been closed so many years, few know where the good feeding grounds are. In the second place, a boat is needed for the best fishing, whereas nearly everybody fished from shore.

And in the third place, the small mouth black bass is a wary gamester, not to be taken like a fresh-run herring by picnic party anglers on a frying pan foray.

I have received many interesting observations, although fishing for small fish has never been experienced by me.

It appears from your last paragraph in today's paper that you have done some sailfishing and know how it is done successfully.

I am forwarding under separate cover a chart of the largest fish caught in Panama Bay, according to our club records; also my last annual booklet which has a few pertinent facts that might be of interest to you.

I have 1000 feet of movies showing the catching of sailfish and pictures of the various kinds of our fish being brought to gaff, and movies of black marlin hanging up their proud victors, the largest marlin weighing 566 pounds. In the event you are interested in seeing them, just let me know and perhaps we can swap a few fish yarns also, and compare our fishing grounds and experiences.

Yours truly,

SEC. SWANSON OF NAVY DIES

Good Ole Summertime—Oh, to be in New England, now that July's here! So might the rest of America sing as the Hub basks under the rays of a most beneficent sun. For, even as the mercury soars, there are hundreds of spots that wait to cool off the hottest Bostonian . . . as (picturesquely) this abandoned quarry in West Quincy, where youngsters splash and dive in cool comfort.
